LOCAL MAN PLANS FLYING SPEED BOAT

Newton will soon take its place beside the home cities of Lindbergh, Byrd, Chamberlin, Hegenberger, and Maitland if plans of Carleton Ruhe of West Newton materialize. Europe within two days, regardless of the weather and in safety and comfort by means of a flying boat will be the outcome of the plan. At present it is but in its infancy and only feasible for an aviator of the type mentioned above but with aviation making the rapid strides it has in the past ten years it is not too much to assume that another decade will see the problem of ocean travel by air a reality. Since the record-breaking feat of Lindbergh and the succeeding accomplishments of other noted flyers aeronautical engineers and naval architects have been bending their energies to the advancement of ocean air travel.

Incorporated in the ideas of the local man are principles of both boating and flying. The hull of the craft is like a racing stepped hydroplane with wings that will lift it a few feet above the surface of the water. The concave forward part of the plane will cut through the hard air-cushion between the surface of the water and the V-shaped bottom of the flying boat at an average rate of 100 miles per hour. Hull friction has been eliminated in order that whirlwind speed can be developed at a height of but two feet from the surface of the water. Power is furnished by an airplane motor mounted on the deck, aft between the two wings. The wings are conceived underneath and bowed back into sharp points. When at full speed the main bearing comes on the wing tips and the tail. Stability in all kinds of weather is maintained by the shape of the wings and the manner in which the bow of the plane cuts the air. When a long stretch of calm water is found it can plane like a speed-boat and fly just above the rolling waves.

Within a short time a 50-foot test boat will be built with a 200 H.P. airplane motor. This is the length of a unit, ten or more of which will make up the transoceanic craft. These units will provide cabin accommodations with motors on the bottom of each unit bringing the total horsepower up to about 25,000. Mr. Ruhe can pick up a ready-made motor for the single unit for the coming trial trip, but the motors to be used in the 10-unit craft will have to be designed especially for that use.

If, as Mr. Ruhe expects, the single unit meets the requirements of speed and stability a new and wonderful means of transatlantic travel is on the verge of discovery. The inventor's design is based upon sound principles of aeronautics and naval architecture and will revolutionize one of the chief problems of the science of today. Seakickness and much danger will be eliminated by the new low-flying speedboat proposed by the local resident.

Sheep Came to U. S. Early

Some of the sheep which roam the ranges today are Mayflower descendants, for Wiltshires of large size and fine wool came to Plymouth, says Nature Magazine. The Dutch brought to New York long-legged sheep with coats of coarse wool, and the Swedish settlers of New Jersey came with rams and ewes to settle in the new land.

NEWTON SPORTS

Martin Victor Over Gotshall

Donald Martin, local tennis player and captain of the Boston University team, captured the championship of Boston in the singles tournament at Franklin Field last Saturday by defeating Abbott Gotshall of Newton and also of Boston University in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

Eben Ellison Pilots Ace

Eben Ellison piloted the Ace, a 15-footer, in the yacht races at Duxbury last Saturday.

Wilson Wins Two-Mile Walk

Ed. Wilson, B. A. A. Walker, was the victor in the two-mile walk at the field day of the Emmett Club of Woburn on the Woburn Library field last Saturday afternoon. Wilson and one of his foremost rivals, Peter Laurino of the Dorchester Club, were at scratch while Knopf, another Dorchester Club athlete, had a 20-second handicap. Wilson led the field to the tape with a half-lap lead over Laurino. Knopf placed third.

Winrow Fifth in 10-Mile Run

H. A. Winrow of Newton Centre placed fifth in the 10-mile event at the Woburn games last Saturday. The local man had a half-mile handicap over "Whitey" Michelson and Jimmy Hennigan and other scratch men. DeMar, veteran marathoner, Michelson, McCune and Hennigan were in front of Winrow.

Hanscom Second in Dash

The William Carter Company's Employees Association held its annual outing at Pemberton last Saturday. The dinner was followed by a program of sports. Newton Hanscom, former Newton High baseball pitcher, finished second in the 100-yard dash.

Hunnelfield Gets Three Hits

Some weeks ago Bill Hunnelfield, who up to that time had been having little difficulty solving opposing pitchers' deliveries, struck a batting slump and was benched in favor of the veteran shortstop Roger Peckinpaugh. Last Saturday the former local player got back into the lineup at second base and celebrated his return by getting three hits out of five trips to the plate of the pitching of Lefty Grove, star Athletic twirler. Two of the three bingles were good for two bases. Home runs by Ty Cobb and Grove offset the value of Honey's hitting and Philadelphia was the victor at the end of the game, 5 to 3.

Newton Centre Defeated

The Newton Centre Town team forced the Gallopino Dominos to gallop ten innings before accepting defeat, 2 to 4, on the Newton Centre playground last Sunday afternoon. Sheehan held the locals to four singles and retired 14 by the knockout route. Leary and MacDonald were on the mound for Newton Centre, the former fanning eight and the latter three.

Newton Athletics Shut Out

The Newton Athletics were shut out by the Brookline Millionaires at the Cypress street, Brookline, grounds last Sunday afternoon, 8 to 0. Roach, pitching for the victors, held the locals to a solitary single in the ninth inning. None of the locals reached second and only three saw the initial sack.

Noble Eliminated in Second

Arthur D. Noble of Newton Centre, youthful tennis star, was eliminated in the second round of the Worcester Country Club tennis tourney last Saturday by S. Snider of Hartford, 6-4, 6-2. Noble won his first round match from E. O'Connor of Worcester, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. Donald Martin, who was playing in the Municipal tourney at Franklin Field, was forced to default his first round match.

"Beak Hollins"

John H. Clausen, former athletic coach of Phillips Exeter Academy and U. S. Navy Olympic track team, has recently written a book entitled "Beak Hollins." It is the story of a college athlete who was forced out of competition by the machinations of his chief rival, who ran in a professional race and caused suspicions to rest upon the hero. On the day of an important meet the situation is cleared up and the hero not only wins two races and the meet but wins back his sweetheart. The author is a resident of Chestnut Hill and his son, Thomas H. Clausen, to whom the book is dedicated, is a recent star runner of the Newton High and Holy Cross College track teams.

Mrs. North Wins Trophy

Mrs. Howard M. North of Waban won the July trophy at the Forest Hills Hotel, Franconia, New Hampshire, for the best medal score in the ladies' golf tournaments.

Turner Put Out At Forest Hills

Robert S. Turner, Newton high school tennis star, was entered in the national tournaments at Forest Hills, N. Y., as a Massachusetts representative this week. The Waban youth, who is a cousin of both Malcolm Hill and Henry L. Johnson, Jr., prominent doubles team, won his first round match from C. R. Green of Forest Hills, 6-4, 6-2, but was eliminated in the second round by Maurice Bayon of New Orleans, 6-3, 6-3.

Mount Etna Long Active

Mount Etna has been known in modern epochs as one of the world's violent and destructive volcanoes, but a geologist has discovered that this mountain was active as early as 50 B. C., and probably was fully as destructive then as now.

Brian Boru Recognized as Ruler of Ireland

The O'Briens and many other distinguished Irish families claim as their ancestor Brian Boru, king of Ireland from 1002 to 1014. This warlike monarch, says a writer in the Kansas City Star, is regarded as the popular hero of early Irish history and the stories of his reign have led to his being regarded as a sort of golden age. Brian passed his youth fighting the Danes, who were constantly ravaging Munster, northern part of the holding of Brian's tribe, and he won much fame for the dashing brilliancy of these encounters. He was still quite young when he avenged the slaying of his brother, a tribal king, and became a ruler himself. Settling out on a career of conquest, he forced virtually every Irish tribe to acknowledge him as its chief, and during the last 12 years of his life he was regarded as the king of Ireland. Then the Danes made an effort to re-establish their supremacy and some of Brian's enemies joined the invaders. In 25 battles, however, he displayed such indomitable fighting spirit that the Danes were all but vanquished, and finally, at the battle of Clontarf, in 1014, the victory was made decisive. Brian, then eighty-three years old, was able only to advise on the maneuvers from his tent, where, after the victory had been won, he was killed. To this day many pilgrimages are made to Armagh, which tradition makes his burial place.

Evidence That Tigers

Select Human Victim
Man-eating tigers of the Indian jungles sometimes appear to single out a certain person and go after him, ignoring all others until they get him, points out Gen. William Mitchell, the noted flying officer, in an article in Liberty. The general tells a story to illustrate his point.

"A native became separated from his companions in the jungle and was chased by a tiger," he writes. "He succeeded in climbing into a tree, while the tiger remained on watch below."

"After a while," General Mitchell continues, "his companions, noting his absence and suspecting that a tiger might have killed him, returned, making a great racket by beating drums so as to keep the tiger away."

"The man descended and joined his companions. They were walking quietly, single file, through the jungle, when suddenly there was a flash of orange and black and the doomed man was carried off by the tiger. It is related, also, that this man was the fattest of the group."

Thunderstorm's Beginning

The thunderstorm is owing to the rapid vertical convection of air containing a large amount of water vapor. The lower air must, therefore, be rather warm, say 70 degrees Fahrenheit or over, else it would not carry the requisite amount of water vapor, and the temperature must decrease rather rapidly with increase of height, else there would be but little or no convection. In the summer time the humidity in Oregon and Washington is rather low. Hence thunderstorms generally are improbable. In the winter time, when most of the rains come, the surface commonly is too cool to set up vigorous vertical convection. Hence thunderstorms are not likely. Thunderstorms are not frequent in Oregon and Washington any time of the year.

Ravages of Hurricane

A West Indian hurricane means days of anxiety to the inhabitants of the southern coast cities. The government gets reports of the approaching storm long before they reach the American coast. When the storm strikes it may demolish sea walls, tear down telegraph and telephone wires, and destroy buildings and ships at anchor in the harbors. Galveston, Charleston and other cities have paid dearly in the past for their unpreparedness.

In a single season a hundred vessels, large and small, have been wrecked, a thousand buildings seriously damaged, scores of lives lost and hundreds of miles of sea walls, docks and telegraph wires destroyed.

Building Note

A colored cook came home after midnight from a revival meeting shouting at the top of her voice. Her employer, letting her in, said: "Aunt Mandy, this is all foolishness. Religion shouldn't be so noisy. Tell that preacher of yours to give a sermon on the building of King Solomon's temple, which arose without even the sound of a hammer. And remember that real religion is quiet and peaceful."

"Lard, honey," answered Aunt Mandy, "us folks ain't a-minin' to build no temple yit. We is jes' blastin' now!"—Capper's Weekly.

Good Manners

As a man thinks in his heart, so it be. Manners go deeper than etiquette. Though they begin there they end in morality. They are established on the golden rule, "Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you." If there had never been a book of etiquette published, or a code written down, humanity would have needed nothing more than that rule by which to train the children of the race in gentleness. And so the text of good manners is: That another expand in the sunshine of your presence.

ARCHERS HOLD PRACTICE SESSIONS

The Newton Archers are now practicing for the National Archery Association tournament which is to be held on Soldiers Field, Cambridge, August 22, 23, 24 and 25. Much rain has made shooting an impossibility at times. It has also halved the shooting space, as a small lake occupies just half of the upper part of the northwest side of the field after each heavy down-pour. However, it has not been necessary to take to bathing suits yet, and good scores are being made on the smaller half of the range.

Great things are expected of Dr. Paul W. Crouch of Newton Centre, who made such a wonderful record at the National Archery Association tournament. Competition for top places at the National will be unusually keen. Dr. Crouch, who is also secretary-treasurer of the National Archery Association, reports a large entry already. Many attractive social events are being planned in connection with the tournament.

One of the newer archers is Mr. Franklin E. Jordan of Newton Highlands, who entered his first tournament at Deerfield this summer. Mr. Jordan is making good progress but will be unable to compete in the National as he is in service in the First Corps Cadets at that time.

CAPTAIN BOOTHBY NAMED ASST. CHIEF

Herbert W. Boothby, captain of Engine 2 at West Newton, will become assistant chief of the Newton Fire Department on Aug. 18th, succeeding George Stacy. He is now acting as assistant chief while Chief Stacy is on his vacation. Captain Boothby received the highest rating at the examination taken a few months ago for the position of assistant chief.

The new assistant chief is a native of Newton Centre and was appointed to the department in 1898 as hoseman and relief driver at Engine 1. He was made a lieutenant in 1916 and assigned to Hose 6, later being transferred to Engine 1. In 1923 he was advanced to captain and transferred to Engine 2. His residence is at 239 Washington street, Newton Corner. Chief Boothby is an efficient fireman, and while unassuming, possesses executive ability.

LAND SALE IN CHESTNUT HILL

Three parcels of land on Bishopsgate road, Intervale road, and Hobart road in the Chestnut Hill district of Newton Centre between Beacon street and Commonwealth avenue have been sold for Judge E. B. Bishop to F. L. Eldkin. The total area is about 188,000 square feet and has been divided by the new owner into lots of generous size restricted to the best type of single houses. This is the only large tract of land remaining undeveloped in this section of Newton Centre. As most of the lots have ample frontages on existing streets, only one new street is being built called Croftdale road.

Alvord Bros. represented both parties in the transaction and have charge of the property for the new owner. A well-built house with about 16,000 feet of well-shrubbed land and two-car heated garage has been purchased by Albert R. Spear. The property is valued at $20,000 and is located at No. 22 Chestnut terrace, Newton Centre.

In Newton Centre, a fine building lot on Kenmore road, consisting of about 12,000 feet has been sold to A. Dudley Dowd. It is valued at $4,000. Dr. Francis J. MacFarlane has conveyed to Joseph A. McCarthy his two lots of land on Chaske avenue, Auburndale, containing 5,258 and 5,607 square feet, respectively.

A tract of land of ten acres 9,000 feet at the corner of Dedham and Walnut streets, Newton Highlands, has been sold for Elihu G. Loomis, et al, trustees, to Edward J. Halloran.

Alvord Bros. were the brokers in all these transactions.

The Bulrushes

Opposite Cairo lies the island of Roda, where, according to Arab tradition, Pharaoh's daughter found Moses in the bulrushes. At the southern extremity of this island is the Nilometer, by which the rise of the Nile has been measured by the Caliphs for 1,000 years. It is a square well with an octagonal pillar marked in cubits in the center.

Fuller's Earth

For ages fuller's earth was used by the weavers for absorbing the oil in woolen cloth. This ancient use has now become almost a thing of the past, other processes being used, but as a toilet powder fuller's earth is invaluable, and it is still in great demand for clearing mineral oils and in the manufacture of soap.

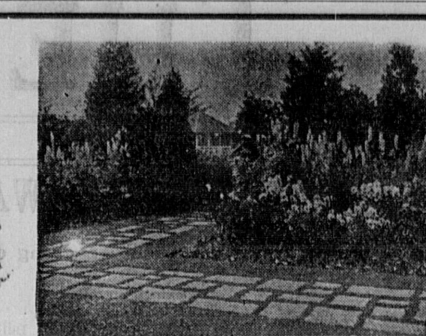

Odd Employers

Varied are the idiosyncrasies of employment managers, those individuals who sometimes hire a man because they like the shape of his jaw or the color of his eyes. One employer has a plan which he thinks is unique. "I have two doors in my office," says he. "One is marked 'Pull' and the other 'Push.' When the interview is concluded and the applicant told to call the next day for final decision only those who use the door marked 'Push' are considered."

NEWTON MASTER PLUMBERS OUTING

The Newton Master Plumbers of Newton and vicinity, with their wives and children held their annual outing at Shore Gardens, Nantasket, Mass., on Thursday, July 28th. The day was an ideal one and every one seemed to be in the best of spirits. At 11 o'clock a baseball game was played between the Jobbers and Plumbers. The score was won by the Plumbers 11 to 10. Sports for women and children also were held. The first on the program 50 yd. dash for women. The same for boys and girls. Potato race for boys and girls also. A grab bag furnished much amusement for the children all receiving some sort of a gift. At 2 p. m. about 150 sat down to a splendid shore dinner. Everyone declared this to be one of the best outings ever held. The committee in charge were Mr. Walter Hogan, chairman; Mr. Leonard Hickman, Mr. Fred Perkins, Mr. J. Harry McGourty, Mr. Fred Warren, Mr. L. H. Lewis, Mr. C. O'Neal, Mr. John Ryan, Mr. W. H. Hochridge, Mr. Louis Martin. A vote of thanks should be given these gentlemen for the labor they put in to this outing which was a decided success. Mrs. J. H. McGourty, should be commended for her wonderful tact in choosing the prizes for all the sports. Leo Reisman's orchestra furnished the music. Later on several of the members finished the day by going swimming and having other sports on the beach.

Vendetta

A vendetta is a blood-feud; the practice of the nearest kin executing vengeance on the murderer of a relative. In Corsica the vendetta is regarded as a duty incumbent on the relatives of the murdered man, and, failing to reach the murderer, they take vengeance on his relatives. The practice exists also, though to a more limited extent, in Sicily, Sardinia and Calabria, as well as among the Druses, Circassians and Arabs.

Leaflets on Stalks

The box-elder, or ash-leaved maple, is to be distinguished by its ash-like leaves of three to five leaflets on a single stalk, coarsely toothed and usually deep green, says the American Tree association of Washington, D. C. The bark on the trunk resembles that of the ash, and is light brownish gray, with narrow, shallow furrows. The young twigs are a light olive green.—Nature Magazine.

AUTO WRECKED NEAR OAK HILL

At 2 o'clock Sunday morning an automobilist informed policemen at Brookline square that a car had been wrecked at the corner of Newton street and the West Roxbury parkway in that town. The police ambulance was despatched to the scene and found a wrecked car which had smashed into a lamppost and a fence, but whose occupants had disappeared. They were informed that another automobile had conveyed them away. The wrecked car was registered in the name of George O'Rourke of 32 Hale street, Newton Upper Falls. O'Rourke told the police it had been stolen in Billerica on Saturday night and that he knew nothing about the accident.

CAMP NEWS

By Harold P. Carver, N. H. S. '26

Everywhere the campers are taking on that healthy color and boys and girls are beginning to gain that quality that the world calls self reliance, or manliness, or womanliness as the case may be. In other words the era of the command and the order is being done away with since the campers themselves endeavor to do without being told. In consequence the councilor and his charges are much closer together than at any other time and the pleasures that they partake of are largely extemporaneous which adds to the fun. Directors are looking at the season in the measure of what has been accomplished, and are making their plans to do this or that better. All in all camp has come to that stage where it is a happy family and the interests of all are the interests of any one camper.

At Wampanoag one of the biggest features of the Field Day, which is the final round up of the camp's activities, is the military drill. Every camper must take part in it, and as a result the youngsters find that when they get home their muscles function better, they are used to obeying a spoken command with a snap, and they carry themselves erect and with a conscious belief that they are real Americans. The instructor always has to begin with raw material as all the new boys are unused to the system employed, and in the end the camp always has a fine array when they march to the sound of the bugle corps. The shield for excellence is won in open competition on Field Day. The instructor stands before the company and gives the military orders with all the precision of an army officer, and one by one the boys fall by the way side as they neglect some slight requisite that the trained eye finds. Finally the last one is judged the winner of one of the most beautiful shields that any camp ever has at its disposal. The instructor this year is Janney Hull who received his military training at Virginia Military Institute, the second best military academy in the country.

On the Idlewild Intermediate ball team Elliot Robinson of Newton Highlands played a splendid game against Passaconaway. He had three assists without an error, and although he failed to hit safely, he showed a good eye for the ball. Since he has some time to spend in grammar school he should improve a great deal and become a valuable addition to a ball team at a later date.

One of the larger and better camps for girls is that in Fairlee, Vermont, which carries on its banners the Indian name of Wynona. The camp proper is located on Lake Morey and it is here that all the aquatic events take place. Every Saturday the girls enter into some sort of water competition, thus the spur throughout the week is to gain something in the way of skill and stamina and hence win more honors the following week end. The entire camp is divided into two parts which are given the warlike names of the Army and the Navy.

Around these two divisions is built the whole scheme of competition. On Wednesday the girls fight it out on land while they practise all during the week on their various events. Among the subjects that they take up at Wynona are the common subjects hockey, basketball, baseball, volleyball, canoeing, dancing but they also indulge in horseback riding, camp craft and art work of all sorts. In short all that other camps have to offer this camp offers on the largest possible scale, and has the best of instructors. It also supplies many modern conveniences that other camps unfortunately overlook, in the way of electricity in the main buildings, and running water in at least one or two places on the camp grounds. The aim of the spirit of competition that takes place at this camp is that at the end of the year the winning the most points receives a large silver cup as a reward for their work. Newton has a reasonably large delegation of girls at this Green Mountain camp, for we find the following names registered as attendants at Wynona: Helen Courtney, Helen Morgan, Virginia Kimball, Barbara Lester, Betty Baldwin, Lucille Defren, Faith Foster, and Virginia Pratt, and Thelma Colton. Helen Thompson has one of the leading roles at the camp for she is captain of one of the teams, and consequently is one of the best all around athletes there.

At Anawan on Lake Winnepesaukee there are two girls from the Newtons, Margaret Noble, and Helen Courtney. Margaret Noble is a junior councillor and assists in tennis, a game that she has improved in remarkably since she has left high school. Anawan is a splendid camp, and has a reputation of being the best run in the country along with its larger rival Teela Wooket.

At Passaconaway, the week's events have mainly been those of the competition for the shields, and Helen Courtney won the junior canoeing shield without a great deal of opposition. The archery tournament saw Robert Chapin forge to the front in the first rounds while the same boy won the Senior swimming events without any trouble leading all contestants all of the time. The baseball teams continued their winning way with three victories in the past week. Idlewild was decisively beaten by the Intermediates with Varney showing a great deal of pitching skill. The real honors, however, belong to Bill Leighton who played one of the best games that any youngster put up at short-stop. The hiking element is in the ascendancy for the Seniors left Wednesday for the long trip to Washington, and the Intermediates are planning to go on Saturday all being well.

THE CHILDREN'S MUSEUM
The regular 3 o'clock story hours at the Children's Museum of Boston in Jamaica Plain will be as follows:
Monday, Aug. 8, "Star Jewels."
Wednesday, Aug. 10, "Grandfather's Eyes"—A tale from Czechoslovakia.
Friday, Aug. 12, "Monsters of Long Ago."

The seventh field trip of the season is a trip to Middlesex Falls, where insect and butterfly life will be studied and collections made.

ROTARY CLUB

The weekly meeting of the Rotary Club was held as usual on Monday at the Woodland Golf Club. The chief guest and speaker was Mr. George F. A. Mulcahy, master of the Suffolk County house of correction at Deer Island, and his subject was "Penal Institutions." Mr. Mulcahy was formerly connected with the Concord Reformatory staff of authorities before taking his present position. Between 500 and 700 prisoners are under sentence at the Deer Island prison all of whom are men. Some years ago women were sentenced to that institution but now they are sent to other penitentiaries.

Many who are sentenced down the harbor could be put upon the right road when released, by the proper co-operation of the public and the various societies dealing with the uplifting of unfortunates, in the opinion of the prison master. Committees could be formed to develop a plan whereby the prisoner, upon being released from jail, could get started upon the right road. Many of those who are thus released are branded as criminals and nothing is done to help them throw off the yoke. When a man is sentenced to Deer Island for a minor crime or a first offence he cannot help but make contacts with other criminals (There for more serious offences and in many cases the former is released with a grudge against society, causing him to go even further in his criminal career. Mr. Mulcahy praised the probation system but felt that many of the judges of today were lax in not dealing severely with first offenders. In this connection he said that if the punishment for the first offence were severe enough it would make many of the minor offenders think twice before attempting a criminal act again.

The meeting of the Rotary Club on Monday of next week, Aug. 8th, will be at Camp Mary Day, Newton Girl Scouts' camp in Cochituate. The Rotarians have also been invited to attend.

HIT BY TRUCK—FATALLY INJURED

George Stickney, son of John F. Stickney of 37 Clarendon street, Newtonville, died at the Newton Hospital on Sunday from injuries received when he was hit by an ice truck on July 26th. According to the statement of Murray Frazier, who was driving the truck for the Newton Ice Company, young Stickney was riding on the side of the truck, which was on Bridges avenue, when he told the boy to get inside the truck, and as the child was about to comply, the accident occurred. The boy received internal injuries, which caused his death. His funeral was held on Wednesday and burial was at Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Massachusetts elected John Quincy Adams to Congress after he had retired as President. Massachusetts would do itself and the entire country a great service by electing President Coolidge to the United States Senate.

If the radical friends of Sacco and Vanzetti don't like Massachusetts laws, Massachusetts courts and Massachusetts Governors, let them go back to their own country.

Mayor Childs' announcement that he would be a candidate to succeed himself was not unexpected, although some of us regret it.

President Coolidge and Governor Fuller occupied the front pages this week.

Gold at Earth's Center?

The way in which earthquake waves travel through the earth helps scientists to form a hypothesis of the composition of the earth many miles below the surface. At best, drills and shafts will reach only a mile or two into the interior, but vibrations set up by immense slips in the crust indicate the nature of rocks to a hundred miles below the surface. The effect of tides on the earth taken in conjunction with its weight makes it probable that the core of the earth is made of heavy, dense and elastic metal, probably iron, with perhaps fabulous deposits of gold and platinum at the center.—Current History Magazine.

NEWTON OF YESTERDAY

The accompanying picture is a view of Hyde's Block taken about 1890. This block was owned by the Hyde family, whose ancestors were among the earliest settlers at Newton Corner. The roof of the old Hyde home-stand can be seen above the top of the little one-story building to the right of E. E. Barnes' shoe store. The old Hyde Block with its mansard roof was purchased by R. H. Taylor of Worcester in the early 90's and razed to make room for the present Stevens Building. Where it was located is now occupied by the real estate office of J. E. Callahan, Briggs Cigar Store, the Newton Lunch and Hudson's Drug Store. When the Hyde Block was torn down, the city took part of the property to widen Nonantum Square, including that corner of the building containing the front of Barnes Shoe Shop and most of the land where the one-story building stood.

The hardware store conducted by C. H. Campbell was started about 1866 by Joseph H. Adams, who resided on Jefferson street. After some years he sold out the store to Paine & Morehouse. Later, Mr. Morehouse acquired sole ownership of the store, and in 1888 sold it to Mr. Campbell, who ran it until 1910, when he was succeeded by his son, George Campbell. The store is now run under the firm name of C. H. Campbell Company; George Campbell is president, and Albert Douglas, treasurer. The McCammon and the Barnes stores both sold shoes, and naturally there was some keen competition with two competitors located side by side. The horse and wagon in front of the building, as shown in the picture, were the property of Stephen Holmes, formerly a well known builder of Newton Corner.

The little building to the right of Hyde's Block contained Davis' Bakery Shop, and "Neddy" Darron's barber shop. "Neddy" was a little mulatto, and a very good barber. He had one son, Herbert, "Herbie," as a boy, aspired to become a tonsorial artist and to acquire practice gave free shaves to "kids" of his acquaintance, although such "kids" at the tender age of ten, or so, did not possess very heavy beards to furnish the best of training for "Herbie." At that time George Dixon was in his prime as a pugilist, one of the cleverest boxers who ever lived. Many of the boys of that day were great admirers of Dixon, who was a mulatto, and a native of either Nova Scotia or New Brunswick. Naturally young Darron looked upon Dixon as a hero, and had aspirations to emulate him. "Herbie" took on any and every youth who would act as a sparring partner for him, and while he was too clever for most of them, once in a while he ran up against a Tartar, and got some severe clouts. When he could not obtain sparring partners, he practised shadow boxing, and to harden his knuckles, pounded the walls of the shop. After he had knocked much of the plaster off the walls, his father forbade any further use of the barber shop for pugilistic purposes.

In the old Hyde house, the roof of which shows at the extreme right of the picture, was a Chinese laundry, and the Newton Dye House, the latter run by John MacKay and his wife. Where this building was located is now the site of Zarrow's store, and the Burrows Furniture Store.

Most Northern Section

The most northern part of the United States proper is 100 miles in Beltrami county, Minnesota, on the northwestern shore of the Lake of the Woods. This tract is completely separated from the state of Minnesota by the lake and cannot be reached by land without traveling over Canadian territory. It came into the possession of the United States through a geographical error in the treaty of Paris signed in 1763, the original surveyors believing that this territory was south of the forty-ninth parallel instead of north of it.

Speed

Can human beings travel at the rate of 1,000 miles an hour and live? The United States Army Recruiting News, in discussing this question, says that such a speed is mechanically possible, but the physiological element may make it impossible. Experiments on animals in France show that such speeds produce amnesia of the brain and hence insensibility and sometimes death. A well-known aviator who won a speed record said, in describing his sensations: "I went out cold as I turned the pylons"—that is, he became insensible for the fraction of a moment. Of course he recovered almost instantly. But with a higher speed he might not recover. What that speed is has not yet been ascertained.

Nature Has Equipped
Sea Bird for Piracy

The man-o'-war is a sea bird with a body about the size of that of an ordinary barnyard hen, monstrous long wings, spreading as much as ten feet, a long bill with hooked tip that makes a dangerous weapon, and tiny feet so weak that the bird can scarcely waddle.

With such equipment, the bird is an accomplished acrobat, circling and diving in midair with lightning speed, or hanging on motionless wings in the teeth of a gale without losing ground. It gets its name from its habit of dashing forth, after the manner of the old-fashioned frigate ship, or full-sailed man-o'-war in pursuit of a merchantman, and playing the villain's part with the peaceful booby returning home from the sea with a maw full of fish for the powder-puff youngster on the islet's battlements.

The frightened booby squaks and dodges, but it cannot escape the threatening pirate bird; so in despair it disgorges in midair and makes its escape, while the man-o'-war dives like a plummet, recaptures the morsel before it drops into the sea, and makes for its own youngster atop the islet or lies in wait for another encounter.—National Geographic Magazine.

Desert Animals That

Scorpions Can't Harm

One of the most fascinating chapters in animal poisons is the subject of natural immunity, the fact that some animals are immune to the poisons of others and remain unharmed if stung or bitten by the poisonous animal, whereas all other sorts of beasts succumb.

A case in point is that of desert animals which are unharmed by a scorpion's sting. The desert fox, the kangaroo rat and other inhabitants of deserts where scorpions abound are in this happy position. Their cousins, living far away from the desert, would at once be seriously injured by a scorpion's sting, whereas the desert breeds remain unharmed. It is to be supposed that in the far distant past, before the desert animals had this complete immunity to scorpion venom, those which were stung and could not resist died, leaving no offspring. Their luckier brothers, who happened to have a harder constitution, survived and left behind them a resistant race of descendants.—Prof. H. Munro Fox in the Forum.

Eskimos Have to Marry

Whenever there has been talk of a tax on bachelors in England, there has been a chorus of protest. Yet their bachelors may consider themselves lucky, for amongst the Eskimos of northern Canada marriage is compulsory.

Christian Leden, the Norwegian explorer, who recently returned from a three years' stay among them, says that no people live a cleaner family life than the Eskimos. Each man has as many wives as he can support, and all are remarkably good natured. Bad temper is considered a sign of being possessed by a devil, and lying is a crime punished by death.

Leden came across only one woman who was not married, and that was due to the fact that her hair was too short.—London Tit-Bits.

The Other Man's Job

It is useful to examine our own capabilities when we find ourselves envying the lot of others. Are we making good in our own sphere of work? That is the first test. If we are merely pottering along in an undisturbed way the chances are we should do the same in any other role. In our own work we are very conscious of its difficulties and barriers. Our advancement is slow because we daily encounter the little lets and hindrances that are hidden from the outsider. But these would be much the same in any other job. If we cannot surmount them in our own case, it is unlikely we should be more successful in a position with which we are wholly unacquainted.—Exchange.

Children's Day

It is not possible to determine when Children's day originated. From early times many pastors devoted a certain Sabbath for special services for children. In 1856, Rev. Charles H. Leonard, pastor of the First Universalist church of Chelsea, Mass., set apart a Sunday for the dedication of children to the Christian life. This was the second Sunday in June. In 1868 the Methodist convention recommended the second Sunday in June to be annually observed as Children's day. In 1881 the Ecumenical Methodist council of London recommended the same day and similar action was taken in 1883 by the Presbyterian General Assembly.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

Many of the street drains in Newton were constructed scores of years ago. Since then the city has grown to several times the population it had then, and hundreds of new streets have been laid out. Some of the old drains are now supposed to take care of many times the amount of surface water that they had to carry when they were built 50 or 60 years ago. Ordinarily they do so; but in a storm such as occurred on Monday evening they cannot hold the tremendous volume of water that flows into the gutters, and many streets become flooded for a time. Perhaps when Newton gets caught up in its school building program, and builds some modern streets, larger drains can be laid where needed. Incidentally, it is about time that something was heard about the much needed new fire house at Newton Corner.

The intention of members of the American Legion from Newton who will make the trip to France, to decorate the graves of the Newton boys buried over there, will recall to many who were with the A. E. F. some of the crude decorations and markers placed on rough graves by loving comrades of soldiers who were buried where they fell. In the shell torn region about Verdun, along the road from Chateau Thierry toward the Vesle, all through the battle area, could be seen little wooden crosses, rudely made, but beautiful because of the inscriptions on them which showed that they had been made and placed by some buddy of the dead soldier whose remains lay underneath. On many of these crosses the helmet of the buried soldier was placed. Unfortunately, after the Armistice, when the sightseers started to circulate through the war zone, these helmets were quickly taken as souvenirs.

When we visited the "Trench of the Rifles" at Verdun, where projected above ground the rifle barrels of the platoon of French infantrymen, who were suddenly buried alive when this section of trench was blown in on top of them, but two bayonets remained affixed in the rifles. The others had been taken by contemptible souvenir hunters. Subsequently this trench was covered by a concrete structure, opened at the sides and ends to permit a view of the projecting rifles, but securing the rifles from the greedy hands of unfeeling souvenir fiends, some of whom had even pulled these mute reminders of one of the tragedies of the great war from the dead hands of the heroes in the engulfed trench, before the French government stopped the contemptible depredations.

Mayor Childs, assisted by W. U. Fog will then presented Mr. Stacy with an Atwater Kent radio set, completely equipped, in behalf of all his friends who were present. The Mayor observed "that if a fellow is any good, his wife is three-quarters responsible for it," and gave Mr. Stacy a bouquet of flowers for Mrs. Stacy. The recipient replied, "I don't think I deserve all this."

George Boardman of Natick, an old friend of Mr. Stacy's, related the latter's courting days in that town. Walter Commissioner Whitney stated that everyone in Newton, from A to Z, is a friend of the Assistant Chief. Chief Randall, who returned from fighting the Newton Centre fire, just as the function was ending, told of Mr. Stacy's services with the Newton Department. He was appointed a call man by the late Chief Bixby in 1882, and a regular fireman in 1890. In 1902 he was promoted to Captain of Chemical A and Engine 2 by the late Chief Walter Randall. He was advanced to Assistant Chief in 1918, and upon the death of Chief Walter Randall in 1924, he was appointed Acting Chief, serving until the appointment of Chief Clarence Randall. He started on his vacation on Tuesday, and will retire on a pension August 17.

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by
Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1926, by Hoyt, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 18

In a number of these articles, the writer has pointed out that when a hand contains a singleton or void suit, a suit bid is much preferable to a no-trump. The reason for this is very apparent. The opponents have the opening lead and it is almost a certainty that they will lead your weak suit. Against a no-trump bid, a clever opponent will pass and open his strong suit. If you bid a suit, however, he will overbid with his strong suit and you will thus gain valuable information. The modern tendency is undoubtedly for suit bids rather than no-trump. For example, suppose that, as dealer, you held the following hand:

Hearts — A, K, 10, 4
Clubs — 7, 2
Diamonds — K, 9, 3
Spades — A, K, 10, 7

Should you bid no-trump or one of your four card suits? A modern up-to-date player would bid one spade and see what happens. If your opponents bid clubs, show your heart suit. If your partner bids clubs, bid no-trump. The object of all sound bidding is to obtain the best bid for the combined hands—that is, of twenty-six cards, not thirteen; and the suit bids obtain that result much better than no-trump bids.

The following hands are instructive because they contain principles of bidding that occur very frequently. Study them carefully until sure you understand the principles involved.

Hand No. 1
Hearts — K, Q, 4
Clubs — A, K, Q, 10, 9, 7, 2
Diamonds — A, 7
Spades — K

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade. A bid two diamonds and Y passed. What should B now bid? B has a wide choice of bids. He may bid three clubs, two no-trump or pass in the hope that his partner can make game in diamonds. The writer is inclined to the latter procedure. If A has a sound two diamond bid, A-B should surely score game, losing only one spade and one heart trick. It is a very close hand.

Hand No. 2
Hearts — Y
Clubs — A, B
Diamonds — Z
Spades — Z

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one heart. If A passed, what should Y do? Should he also pass or should he bid two clubs? Y should pass and show his club suit on the second round if he gets the opportunity. To bid two clubs over one heart would deny the hearts bid a pass and then a bid of clubs, shows help for hearts and a big club suit. This is a common situation so note carefully.

ARTICLE No. 19

Every once in a while you will hold a hand with which, by a little quick thinking, you can make a big gain. For example, suppose your partner bids one no-trump and second hand passes, what would you do if you held the following hand?

Hearts — K, 7, 3
Clubs — 10, 8, 7, 3
Diamonds — K, 10, 4
Spades — A, 8, 6, 5

Would you pass as most players would do or would you bid two no-trump? The purpose of the latter bid is to shut out a bid of two hearts or two diamonds by fourth hand. If this bid should be made and your partner passes, you are not strong enough either to bid two no-trump or double. On the other hand, if you bid two no-trump, it is very unlikely that fourth hand will be strong enough to bid three of a suit but if he does you should double. A bid of two no-trump with the hand given will score game, but if you pass, fourth hand would have bid two hearts and game then becomes impossible. Be on the alert for such hands and don't hesitate to bid two no-trump when there is a good reason for doing so.

The writer has frequently warned his readers of the dangers of preemptive bids unless properly used. Here is a hand that illustrates the point:

Hearts — Y
Clubs — A, B
Diamonds — Z
Spades — Z

Hearts — A
Clubs — A, K, J, 9, 8, 5, 4, 2
Diamonds — A, 7
Spades — A, 4

If there were no score, rubber game, what would you bid with Z's hand as

Problem No. 24

Hearts — J, 7
Clubs — Q, 10, 8
Diamonds — 7, 5
Spades — 10, 9

Hearts — K
Clubs — A, K, 6, 3
Diamonds — none
Spades — Q, J, 8, 2

Hearts — Q, 8, 3
Clubs — J, 9, 7
Diamonds — none
Spades — A, K, 7

Hearts are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y-Z win six of the nine tricks against any defense? Solution in the next article.

Oldest Microscope

The oldest microscope on record is a lens of quartz found among the ruins of Nineveh, which is now in the British museum. During the Middle Ages simple lenses were more and more used. A spectacle maker at Middleburg, Holland, was the first to build a compound microscope, which he constructed about 1590 for Charles Albert, archduke of Austria. Robert Hooke, secretary of the royal society, made various improvements.

Cheapside First Home of Great British Bank

How came the bank of England to be built? And why the appellation "The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street?" Mr. H. Rookby Steele, a well-known London architect, supplies the answers in an article on the architectural history of Britain's bullion house. Many think that Sir John Soane, the wizard of Lincoln's Inn fields, built the bank. His are the girding walls, but in the raising of the fabric three other names—those of Sampson, Taylor and Cockerell—have to be joined. Mercer's hall, Cheapside, was the bank's first home; but a quick move was made to the Grocer's hall, in Poultry, and it was not until 1792 that the foundation stone of the present bank was laid. George Sampson was the first architect, and it is curious that no building, other than the bank, can be attributed to his hand, a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer comments. In the cornice extending the full length of the building, Taylor sculptured an excellent figure of Britannia, some years after the completion of the building. "This carving, the 'trade mark' of the bank," writes Mr. Steele, "was probably the inspiration for that trite appellation, the 'Old Lady of Threadneedle Street.'" Taylor added to Sampson's building, and in 1870 the Gordon riots led the directors to fear that the adjoining church of St. Christopher-le-Stocks might lend itself as a dangerous vantage point for a mob, so powers were obtained, the fabric was pulled down, and more extensions were made.

First Rude Telescope Evolved by Accident

When the son of a sixteenth century spectacle maker in Holland picked up some spectacle lenses in his father's shop one day and happened to hold up two of them, one in each hand, he was surprised on looking through both lenses to see the weathercock on a neighboring church steeple greatly enlarged. Excited by this discovery, he ran to his father and told him what he had seen. The father immediately took the two lenses and repeated the experiment. The result confirmed his boy's report and the father set to work at once, fixing two movable lenses on a board—an idea suggested to him by the varying view he had obtained by moving the lenses in his hands—and thus the first rude telescope came into being. Shortly after the news of this discovery had leaked out, a friend wrote to Galileo in Italy describing the contrivance of the Dutch optician and it was from this description that the Italian inventor built the telescope that made him famous—Newton Weekly Chronicle.

Cape Horn

Gen. William T. Sherman wrote in his Memoirs that Cape Horn was an island rounded like an oven, "after which it takes its name (Ovens) oven." However, he was in error, for the Spanish word for oven is "hornos," though it is pronounced without the "h" sound. The island to which Sherman referred is known as Horn Island and the actual cape is only a portion of the island, says the Pathfinder Magazine. But the cape did not get its name because of its resemblance to an oven. It was named for the Dutch navigator William Schouten van Goorn who, with Lemaire, doubled the cape in 1616. Horn in Spanish is called Cabo de Hornos. No wonder Sherman was misled, for literally Cabo de Hornos would mean cape of ovens; that is, it would according to the form, did it not have a different origin.

Next Best Thing

It was a country town, and at a meeting of the leading merchants it was decided that the fire company and appliances available were not sufficient for a place of such importance. They therefore decided to form a supplementary company and, having enlisted several members, consulted the chief of the fire department as to what was to be done.

"Well," said the chief, "let us suppose there were two fires in the neighborhood and all our available men were called to one, do you think you could manage to put out the other?"

"Well, we couldn't do that, but we could keep our fire going till you came back from the other."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Skill That Becomes Art

The attainment of proficiency, the pushing of your skill with attention to the most delicate shades of excellence, is a matter of vital concern. Efficiency of a practically flawless kind may be reached naturally in the struggle for bread. But there is something beyond bread—a higher plane, a subtle and unobtainable touch of love and pride in mere skill; almost an inspiration which gives to all work that finish which is almost art—which is art—Conrad.

Poland's Capital

Warsaw was the capital of the ancient kingdom of Poland, and later the chief city of the Russian province of that name. The peace settlement of 1919 re-established Poland as a sovereign state with the republican form of government, and Warsaw is the capital. It has a population of 700,000, one third of whom are Jews. It is an important railway center and is the first place in which used to be southwestern Russia.

MORTGAGE MONEY

There is a distinct advantage in having home mortgages held by home institutions. More favorable treatment is natural when the applicant deals directly with the Bank and establishes intimate friendly relations than can be expected if he deals with those who are practically strangers.

Our service is friendly, courteous and efficient, and our terms on mortgage loans are reasonable.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

On the police records of Newton is the name of a man who on numerous occasions during a long period of years has been arrested for drinking too copiously of the cup that cheers, or soddens. Many years ago, when the old horse-drawn patrol wagon was in use, this individual got soused and was taken into custody. The wagon was called for and despatched to bring him to police headquarters. The police officer who went on the wagon that night was a husky individual, who in his day could, and did, handle the "toughest" of them in this city.

When the wagon arrived at the box where the arresting officer awaited with his inebriated prisoner, it was found that the latter had in his possession a basket of large, very ripe Concord grapes. The "soused one" and his fruit were loaded into the wagon and the trip to West Newton began.

During the journey the inebriated person perked up somewhat and started to become abusive to the policeman on the wagon. Finally he became so nasty that the "cop" decided he should be somewhat tamed. Not wishing to inflict any physical punishment on the troublesome prisoner, the wagon officer thought of a very effective way of controlling him. Reaching into the basket, the policeman seized a large bunch of the juicy Concord grapes and squashed them on the face of the quarrelsome drunk. The latter very quickly quieted down, but during the rest of the journey kept gurgling his indignation, as he sputtered through the grape juice.

When the wagon and its prisoner reached Police Headquarters and the drunk was taken in to be booked, the lieutenant at the desk gazed with fright at what seemed to be a man whose face was covered with blood, although said blood was somewhat purple in hue. The victim of the "grape juice" attack voiced his protests, but received little sympathy when it was discovered by the lieutenant that he needed soap and water, instead of a surgeon.

According to information furnished to Governor Fuller by one of the leaders of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defence Committee, $325,000 was raised to defend these two doomed men. It would make very interesting reading if a detailed report were printed of the disbursements from this large amount of money.

The unusual feature of the Sacco-Vanzetti case is that it has apparently aroused more interest in other parts of the United States than it has in Massachusetts, and it has caused more indignation in foreign countries than in this country.

The testimonial to Assistant Chief George F. Stacy of the Newton Fire Department at Elks Hall on Monday night was one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever held in this city. W. Uriah Fogwill, who arranged the event, was justly proud of his efforts. George Stacy well deserved the honors heaped upon him. He was a faithful servant of the city, and a "regular fellow." George wore the same size hat when chief that he wore when he was a private in the ranks. His many friends throughout the city join in wishing him a long period of rest and enjoyment in the years to come.

President Calvin Coolidge has stated, "I do not choose to run for President in 1928." This does not necessarily mean that President Coolidge will not run for President in 1928. Many things can happen between now and the next Republican National Convention. The various aspirants for the nomination may cause such a tangle that the G. O. P. may turn to "Cal" and implore him to run again. Stranger things have happened.

Now that Mayor Childs has definitely stated "that he intends to be a candidate for another term as chief executive of Newton," other aspirants for this office can determine whether "To be, or not to be."

We have been asked to call attention to the fact that many sidewalks in this city are obstructed by hedges and branches of trees which project over them. It is suggested that the large hedge alongside the Newton Opera House, on Pearl street, be trimmed, in order that the many persons using the sidewalk on this street will not be deprived of the right to use the whole width of the sidewalk.

Clutching at God's Reins

What discord should we bring into the universe if our prayers were all answered? Then we should govern the world, and not God. And do you think we should govern it better? It gives me only pain when I hear the long, wearisome petitions of men asking for they know not what. As frightened women clutch at the reins when there is danger, so do we grasp at God's government with our prayers. Thanksgiving with a full heart—and the rest silence and submission to the divine will!—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Soul Development

Every trouble is an opportunity to win the grace of strength. A trouble is a moral and spiritual task. It is something which is hard to do. Strength is increased by encounter with the difficult. Every day we are blessed with new opportunities for the development of strength of soul.

BUILDERS OF CHESTNUT HILL SCHOOL HAVE HAD MUCH EXPERIENCE

The Phandor Company of Boston, successful bidders on the new school which will be erected on Dolphin road, off Ward street at Chestnut Hill, is composed of Edward Phandor of Dorchester and James F. Doherty of Manchester, Chestnut Hill. These two men for 16 years had full charge for the Boston Schoolhouse Commission of the building of all new schools. Since they started in business for themselves fifteen months ago, they have been awarded contracts for several school buildings, some of which are completed. Among these are the Harriet Baldwin School at Washington street and Corey road, in the Aberdeen Section, the Robert Shaw School at Wren street, West Roxbury, the Sacred Heart School at East Boston, and a large addition to the Alexander Hamilton School on Sutherland road, Brighton. They also received the contract for the new fire station at Meeting House Hill, Dorchester, as well as a number of private contracts.

Mr. Phandor's father was a well known Boston builder who constructed the Boston Athletic Association clubhouse and the B. F. Keith theatre. Mr. Doherty, in addition to being an experienced builder, is an electrical engineer, a civil engineer, and a lawyer. He is a member of Newton Lodge of Elks.

POLICE NEWS

Last Friday a raid was made by Lexington police on a farm on Lowell street in that town. Three stills of 1000, 400 and 300 gallons capacity were seized, together with thousands of gallons of mash and 60 gallons of liquor. Five brothers named Busa, who conducted a "farm" at this place were arrested, together with three other men. Two of the men's names and addresses were given as Salvatore Gorgone, 51 Border street, West Newton, and Samuel Lanbo, 22 Cottage place, West Newton.

David S. Niles of Elmwood street, Newton, was fined $100 by Judge Bacon last Friday for driving while under the influence of liquor. On the same day Judge Bacon fined John James of Somerville, and Hall Gamage of Winchester $10 each for speeding.

Richard T. Mason of Coon place, Roxbury, was arrested Sunday at Chestnut Hill by Patrolmen Tompkins and Goodale, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He will be tried on August 10.

John L. Sullivan of 905 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, was arrested on Saturday at Newton Highlands, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He will also be tried on August 10.

Another autoist charged with "wutol" operating was arrested by Serg. Moan and Officer J. P. O'Donnell at Newtonville square on Monday morning when Frank O. Southwell of 66 Court street, Newtonville, was taken into custody.

Rodario Cavallo of Oak avenue, West Newton, was found not guilty of assault and battery by Judge Connolly in the Newton Court on Monday. Cavallo was accused by Joseph Gentile of poking him in the ribs with a revolver after the children of the two had a quarrel.

Francesco Brogna, who said he came from Boston, was sentenced to the State Farm at Bridgewater for vagrancy by Judge Connolly on Wednesday. Brogna, who gave his age as 65, was taken on Tuesday night by the police from an old shack off North street, Newtonville, near the Waltham line. He had been noticed by boys of the neighborhood hanging around the shack for a few days, and the youngsters, thinking the shed was in Waltham, notified Patrolman Murrin of that city. Murrin investigated and found Brogna lying in the shack on some boards placed across two barrels. The man was in a weakened condition from lack of food. The Newton police were notified, and Patrolmen Maloney and O'Donnell took Brogna to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance. There it was found that all he needed was some food, and this was given to him.

Humphrey Holmes of 1135 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, was arrested at 2 a. m. on Wednesday by Patrolmen Charlton and Walter, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He will be tried Aug. 11.

Elliot Rogers of 79 Hillside avenue, West Newton, was fined $5 by Judge Connolly on Wednesday for driving without a license.

John McNeil of Lynn was fined $50 in the Newton court on Wednesday for driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested on July 23 at Auburndale and had to spend some days in the Cambridge jail because of his inability to obtain bail.

Joseph Mendoncio of 5 Dudley road, Newton Centre, was in the Newton court on Tuesday charged with failing to pay $80 in wages to Frank Page of Winchester street, Newton Highlands, a carpenter who had been in the case continued until Thursday, and told Mendoncio to pay the money to Page.

Edward Bradley of Brackett street, Brighton, was arrested Monday night by Patrolman Maloney charged with drunkenness and with driving while under the influence of liquor. Bradley's car was being driven at the time of the arrest by Gardner Knight of Brook street, Brighton, who was supposed to be driving under Bradley's license. Knight was not under the influence of liquor. Maloney stopped the car because it was not properly lighted. They were arraigned in the Newton court on Tuesday before Judge Connolly. The judge ordered Knight to withdraw his plea of guilty on the charge of driving without a license, in view of the fact that Bradley was charged with drunken driving because Knight was operating under his license. The case was continued until Aug. 9.

"Speeders" fined in court on Tuesday were: Pasquale Sebastiano, Framingham, $15; James Herbert, Wintthrop, $10; William Homans, Canton, $25. It was Homans' second offence within a year.

Believe That Stolen Articles Bring Luck

An extraordinary example of the survival of foolish superstition was disclosed in the case of a Hampshire (England) farmer who was convicted of stealing turnips from a neighbor. He explained to the magistrate that he could easily afford to pay for them, and that, moreover, he had plenty of turnips of his own, but he wanted stolen ones to make a concoction for a cow which had fallen sick, for he firmly believed no other could be so efficacious.

A similar belief is held in many parts of Germany, where practically everyone buys a ticket for one or other of the state lotteries. Many uneducated peasants will tell you they are sure of winning if the ticket they have bought with stolen money. In Turkey, copper rings are worn on the fingers to prevent erysipelas. If the ring has been stolen from some one else, it is supposed to answer its purpose twice as well.

Examples might be multiplied from every quarter of the earth. Most probably the superstition arose from the natural desire of the criminal to find some excuse for his delinquencies.

U. S. Grant Won Bride While Forging River

Ulysses S. Grant selected an odd time to propose marriage to Julia Dent, Lieutenant Grant from West Point had met Julia while on a visit to the home of his chum in St. Louis. He fell in love with her and decided to return to pursue his attentions, relates Edna M. Colman in "White House Gossip."

Their betrothal occurred while they were forging the Gravois river. They were in a light rig, the young man driving. The waters were swollen and the current so swift from the recent heavy rains that they were in grave danger. The manner of her clinging to him in her fear of the water inspired him with the courage to propose to her then and there. In after years she often related to her grandchildren the story of the betrothal, placing special stress on the old superstition that unusual strength and constancy were attributes of many pledges made over running water, says Capper's Weekly.

Thrill Aid to Courage

Thriftness often fosters cowardice. Thrift inspires courage. Shiftless persons rarely have much backbone. They are so dependent upon others for assistance that often they cannot assert themselves to preserve their self-respect. Their wasteful habits sap their self-reliance, their self-assurance. The thrifty individual, of the other hand, has learned to stand on his own feet. He has learned how to take care of himself, how to manage his affairs, how to provide against emergencies. Therefore, he is little inclined to submit to unequalled indignities. Nor is he afraid to take reasonable risks. His financial backbone gives him courage. And without courage few successful careers have been built up. Thus we arrive at this formula: Thrift develops success.—Forbes Magazine.

Kin to a Mysterious Race

So long ago that it is impossible to say when, there dwelt in Europe or Asia a most remarkable tribe of mankind. These people are not mentioned in any ancient history and no legend gives a hint of their existence. They were the so-called fathers of the Aryans who now people the earth, and the knowledge we have learned through the study of words. Word by word the language of the original Aryans has been exhumed from the desecrated modern languages until, pieced together, they tell the story of a vanished people. Historians tell us that words and customs are a great index to the life of any race.—Capper's Weekly.

Crashing the Gate

A young son came to his mother one day carrying an invitation to a children's party to be given by one of the mothers in the neighborhood. As it carried an R. S. V. P. the mother at once dispatched an acceptance for her son. The boy attended the party as planned and some time afterward the mother asked him where the envelope was in which his invitation had come. The son replied: "Oh, I didn't get any envelope, I traded a marble for the invitation."

Her Idea of It

"How much for this little spool of silk?" asked Audrey, who was shopping in a neighborhood store. "Twenty cents?" That is about twice what I usually pay."
"But most of the silks were died last year," said the proprietor.
"I suppose if I wanted a roll of tape most of the tape would be up and die, too?"
Thereupon the astute little girl walked dignifiedly out.—Kansas City Star.

Dinosaur "Revamped"

One of the world's largest dinosaur (fornieria), which died about 30,000,000 years ago, is to be put on its legs again at the Natural History museum south Kensington, England. The fornieria lived in the estuaries of rivers, laid eggs and ate floating vegetation. It was about 50 feet long and 30 feet high and weighed something like ten tons. Its bones were found in Tanganyika.

No-Hit-No-Run Game

Last night on the "Y" field Donald Cunningham of the West Newton Athletic Club team twirled the first no-hit, no-run game in the history of the Newton Twilight league. In seven innings Cunningham fanned nine while his teammates gathered eight runs to put the game on ice. It was the West Newton aggregation's third straight victory in three consecutive nights. Newton Centre and Newton Highlands were the victims on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The spurt lifted the W. N. A. C. nine from seventh place to fourth.

Upper Falls Takes Lead

Upper Falls took the lead in the second half of the Newton Twilight league on Tuesday night by knocking off the Earnshaw Mills nine, 5 to 0. Corpus Christi was forced to postpone its Friday and Monday night affairs because of the rain and this allowed the first-half champions to gain a full game on the Auburndale team. Newton Highlands was on the short end of 5 to 1 score on Wednesday night in a postponed game with the W. N. A. C. outfit. This was the first defeat in the second half for the Highlands and dropped them to third place.

The league enters upon the fifth week of the second half next Monday and, but for the rainy weather of the past few weeks, would have no difficulty in winding up this month. Because of the large number of postponed games it will be after Labor Day before the season ends and the series for the City title and possession of the Graphic Cup for this year is staged. Upper Falls, by winning the first half, will of course be one of the teams engaged in the series. The other team is likely to be either Corpus Christi, Newton Highlands, or the Newton Pals. The W. N. A. C. must still be figured a possible contender because of the magnificent tender he has shown. If it can spurt it showed that it can. It can tackle the two leaders as it did the Highlands outfit and its other victims this week it will soon be right up near the top of the heap. The only other team that can possibly be figured in the running is the West Newton Town Team which replaced the Catholic Club and took over that club's record of one win and one loss a few weeks ago. At present they are in sixth place and but two full games away from the leaders. Their chances depend also upon their ability to defeat the leading clubs. Upper Falls, of course, may be on the top at the end of the scuffle and win the city title without having to play a post-season series.

Odd Superstition

An old superstition in Iceland is that every bride must invite all her friends to a dinner in her own home, and every article of food must be prepared by the bride herself. If she is successful in pleasing her guests she not only receives praise for her own skill, but helps along her younger sisters, who are then assumed to be equally good at cooking, and consequently have a much better chance of getting married.

POLICE NEWS

Judge Connolly of Waltham, who is presiding at the Newton Court while Judge Bacon is on his vacation makes "speeders" pay well for driving recklessly on public highways. Yesterday several who like to step on the gas were before him and paid fines. Alex Tedesco of Gambier road, Auburndale, was fined $20; Alfred Pellerin of Cushing street, Waltham, $15; Stanley Fowler of West Roxbury, $15; John L. Shea of Parkman street, Dorchester, $15; Bernard Rosen of Somerville, $10; Peter Sostillo, 31 Jackson street, Newton Centre, $20; Frank Day, Roxbury, $20. Robert Burke of Meredith street, Newton Highlands was fined $10 for parking his automobile without lights at night.

Hyman Shelman of 94 Dalby street, Nonantum, was in court yesterday, charged with creating a disturbance. Frank Brogna, the elderly man who was found in an exhausted condition by the police in an old shack off North Street, was sentenced to the Bridgewater State Farm, was found to be an escaped inmate of the Medfield Insane Hospital. He was taken back to that institution.

Early yesterday morning three young sailors from the U. S. S. Arkansas, and a young civilian, hired David Shidell, a Boston taxi driver to drive them to Newton Centre. When Shidell reached a point on Beacon street, behind the grounds of Boston College, he was held up by the quartet and robbed of $21. At the point of a revolver, later found to be an imitation affair, he was forced to drive back to Huntington avenue, near Jamaicaaway, where his passengers alighted and fled, ordering him to keep on. He drove to the Roxbury Crossing police station and reported the robbery. The Roxbury police notified the Newton police, and Serg. Veducio and Patrolman Stanton went to Roxbury to assist in trying to capture the quartet. The civilian and one of the sailors were captured in Roxbury, and from them it was learned that the other two sailors had gone to a room at 105 Green street, Boston, rented by the civilian, Willrose Donovan. Veducio and Stanton, together with officers from the Boston police station, in Boston, went to the Green street address, entered the house and when their knocks were not answered, Serg. Veducio and Patrolman Veducio of Boston, forced an entrance into the room where the fugitives were supposed to be. They discovered that the sailors had escaped by climbing out a window and following up a waterspout to the roof. The two policemen took the same route after the quarry. Serg. Veducio spotted one of the seagoing highwaymen hiding behind a dormer window, and covered him with a revolver. The sailor quickly surrendered. His companion in crime was found hiding behind a chimney. They were taken in tow by Veducio and Stanton, together with the pair captured in Roxbury and brought to Newton, where they were arraigned in court yesterday morning.

The three sailors gave their names and addresses as Arthur Hatley, 19, of South Carolina; George Briscoe, 20, of Salem; and Joseph Adair, 19, of Salem. Judge Connolly bound them each held in $10,000 bonds. They were taken to the jail at East Cambridge.

DEATH OF MR. SARTWELL

Mr. Lucas K. Sartwell, who died last Tuesday at his home on Watertown street, Newtonville, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Judson B. Sartwell. Mr. Sartwell has been ill for several months and was in his 28th year. Funeral services were held from his late residence on Wednesday afternoon and were in charge of officers of Dalhousie Lodge of Masons, of which he was a member.

Shyster Lawyer Had Overlooked a Point

When Musa Ben Adhem was poor, as he was crossing a plain one day, he came to the house of the widow Zaidah, who was poor also. Musa knocked and told the widow of his hunger, and she gave him two hard-boiled eggs, all the food she had.

In after years, when Musa Ben Adhem had grown rich, Abdullah, the shyster lawyer, persuaded the widow to sue him, not for her two eggs alone, but for the two chickens which they would have become, together with all the chickens' eggs and offspring, a vast sum equal to the whole of Musa Ben Adhem's fortune.

"Where is the defendant in this case? Why isn't he present?" the judge demanded sternly.

Then the brilliant young corporation lawyer, Haroun, rose and said in his suave voice:

"I represent the defendant, your honor. I have sent him out into the country to sow baked potatoes."

"To sow baked potatoes?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Why, he must be mad. You must be mad. The pair of you are mad."

"No, your honor, we are very wise," said Haroun in a snarling voice then ever, "for surely, if boiled eggs can be hatched, baked potatoes can be grown."

The judge laughed heartily. Then he delivered judgment against Abdullah, the shyster lawyer, with heavy costs.

Porridge That Makes for Domestic Felicity

When a husband begins staying out late at night and cultivating his crop of wild oats, the women of the native tribes in central Africa provide him with a bit of food considered certain to bring him back to the paths of domesticity and proper conduct. The food must be served without his knowledge, but, once it has entered his system, the woman expects him to be a model husband for all the years ahead, says the Adventure Magazine.

The food is a porridge thickened with meal made from the flesh of dried lizards. The wife, taking the lizard, kills it, dries the body in the sun, pounds it to a fine powder with stones, then pours into his porridge the dose the misconduct of her husband appears to require.

She is supposed to serve it to him when he comes in from hard labor, is tired and hungry, liable to take the food and devour it without asking questions. The dried lizard powder porridge is the antidote for divorce court troubles, and is said to work well among the people there.

People of Mixed Blood

The Melungeons, a race of people said to be living in the mountains of east Tennessee, are supposed to be an offshoot of the so-called "Croatian Indians" of North Carolina. The name "Melungeon" is probably from the French "mélange," meaning mixed. They are of mixed Indian, white and negro blood, according to ethnologists, although the original admixture of blood occurred centuries ago and the history of these people is obscure. The Melungeons, who in general resemble Indians more than negroes or whites, refuse to be classed as negroes and refuse to attend negro schools and churches. At the same time they are socially ostracized by the whites. Although they are as dark as mulattoes, their hair is straight. For the most part, the Melungeons are farmers.—Exchange.

Anglo-Scotch Idiom

The way in which Scottish and English idioms differ are legion, and anyone attempting to make an exhaustive list would probably find the proverbial three score and ten a span too short for the task. Sir James Wilson, who has been making a study of the dialects of central Scotland, cites as examples: Whereas an Englishman "oversleeps himself," invites a friend "to tea" and asks: "What will you take?" a Scot "sleeps in," invites you "to your tea" and hospitably inquires: "What are ye for?"

Radio Reception

The Loomis Radio school says: Generally speaking, signals will come in loudest from those stations which are located in the directions toward which one's lead-in points. Instead of in the direction pointed to by the free end of the antenna. Those stations will be heard next loudest which are slightly off this line. So far as the college knows, the direction of the aerial in regard to the cardinal points of the compass has very little effect on radio reception.

Who's Random?

"Was a hard and bloody battle at the pistol range. At last the instructor called: 'Fire at Random!'" After the carnage had ceased one "freshman" still stood with his pistol at "ready," a full clip in it. "Hey, you!" yelled the instructor. "Why didn't you shoot?" "I'm waiting for Random to stick his head around the parapet."

Getting and Spending

A familiar adage is, "Easy come, easy go." This is peculiarly applicable to money; the easier money comes the easier it goes, and conversely the harder money comes, the more carefully it is expended. Only the man who knows the cost of a dollar, knows its value.—Grit.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

Assistant Chief George K. Stacy is extremely grateful to the members of the Newton Fire Department, and to all his friends who participated in the testimonial tendered him last Monday night, for their manifestations of good will. Mrs. Stacy also expresses her appreciation for the courtesy accorded her. George has not, as yet, recovered from the surprise he got upon his arrival at Elks Hall.

The other evening we sat outside Engine 1 house for about an hour. During that time at least a dozen automobiles went by with but one headlight working. Cars improperly lighted are increasing rapidly in number. They are responsible for many fatal automobile accidents. Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin states "that he has not enough inspectors to cope with this evil, and that it is up to the police forces of towns and cities to enforce the headlight law." Some of the members of the Newton police force stop autoists whose cars are not properly lighted. Other members of the police force do not give the attention to this matter that they should. It sometimes happens that an automobile will have one of its headlights "go bad" while being operated, without the knowledge of the operator. Operators of cars where this happens, should be cautioned, but not punished. But those persons, and there are many of them, who knowingly operate cars with defective lights, should be prosecuted.

Hoseman Arthur McCarthy of Engine 2, was of valuable assistance in arranging the details of the testimonial to Chief George Stacy. Arthur can always be depended upon to help his comrades.

Find Bronze in Copper

Chemical analyses have revealed that much of the so-called bronze found in ancient ruins or monuments is not bronze at all but copper of a rather high degree of purity considering the facilities for smelting the metal in those early days. This is especially the case with such objects found in the oldest Egyptian and Mesopotamian remains. On the other hand the bronze bands from the gates of the palace of Shalmaneser II. are really bronze, containing about 9 per cent of tin. Copper, rather than bronze, seems to have been the earliest used metal. Iron was known to the ancient Egyptians but was so rare and costly that it was used in jewelry.

ON THE OLD FRONTIER

The National Editorial Association Visits the Wild and Woolly West of 50 Years Ago

Sunday morning we arrived at four gigantic figures—Washington, Deadwood, South Dakota, one of the numerous mining towns which have survived the gold rush of fifty years ago. One of the interesting facts about the town is the celebration each year of the Spirit of 1876, so to speak. For this event, which takes place early in August, most, if not all of the men in town form a Whiskers club and allow their beards to grow. The effect, to an outsider, is rather humorous, as most men do not have the right kind of a face for beards. It speaks well for the community spirit of the town, however, that 350 men will endure that inconvenience for several weeks each year.

Our party visited the summit of Mount Roosevelt, where there is quite an elaborate monument in honor of the former President. The view from here is superb, many States being within ordinary vision.

In the afternoon many members of the party paid a visit to the Home-stake gold mine at Lead (pronounced "lead"). It is said this mine has never missed paying its regular 50 cents monthly dividend and is the principal support of several thousand employees.

Our party was given permission to visit some of the underground workings of the mine, a privilege which is rarely granted.

The next day was cloudy and gloomy and the program included an observation car trip through Spearfish Canyon, one of the beauty spots of the illustrated his interesting and informative address with lantern slides showing how the work is to be carried on.

Most of our party left the Black Hills with much regret and most of us promised ourselves that we should surely return to view its beauties and its marvelous rock formations in a more leisurely manner. Let me advise anyone who contemplates a trip to the more famous Yellowstone Park to be sure and pass through the Black Hills on their way.

Returning to Nebraska our first stop was at Scottsbluff, the largest city in the great North Platte Valley and only 27 years of age at that. Fourteen Chambers of Commerce in this valley combined for our entertainment and it was one of the best managed affairs of its kind I have ever witnessed. We were given a choice of seven different routes and after a splendid breakfast, served in one of the churches, the party was divided, according to num-

Black Hills, a trip to Belle Fourche, where President Coolidge was later entertained by a Wild West show, and a visit to Fort Meade. Mrs. Brimble-com and I were more or less satiated with scenery and in view of the doubtful weather, stayed by the train in order to obtain a much needed rest. The rest of the party were caught in a heavy rain while only a few miles out and their trip was somewhat marred.

We reached Rapid City early the next morning, and here again the program did not prove alluring and we continued to rest. I paid a visit to the President's executive office, located in a fairly new High School, and had a chat with the President's personal secretary, Mr. E. T. Clark.

One of the high spots of the trip to the Black Hills was an address at the Elks Club Theatre in Rapid City after returning from the canyon trip by Gutzon Borglum, credited with being the world's most famous sculptor.

Modern Harvest Scene in the Wheat Belt, near Sidney, Nebraska

Borglum, who is at Rapid City to carve a national memorial in Rushmore mountain eternalizing four great figures in the nation's progress—Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt—explained the conception of the great monument. He pointed out the regrettable fact that nowhere in America was there a monument that caught the real spirit of America. He referred to the Stone Mountain memorial, which, he said, was conceived with the idea of forever cementing the friendships between North and South. In this connection he paid a high tribute to President Coolidge, saying that he has done more than any man to forward the great idea. "His action in authorizing the coin that bears the head of Robert E. Lee was unique in history," said Mr. Borglum. "No other victor in all the world's history has ever paid a tribute to the vanquished."

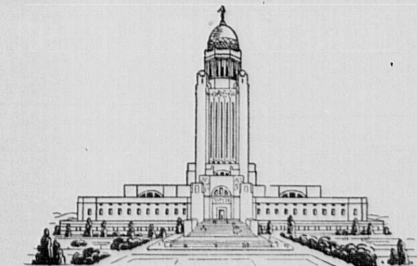

Mr. Borglum then traced the history of the West from the time a French Canadian trapper had claimed what is now the two Dakotas for France in 1745, down through the Louisiana Purchase, the annexation of Mexico and the acquiring of California and the Oregon country. On the great mountain in the Hills he is going to carve signal fires once blazed from the summit of Scotts Bluff. Buffalo were chased all through the Valley, and antelope and elk were numerous in the old days. A few miles east of Chimney Rock was fought a great battle with the Indians, in which the Indians massacred a score or more of prospective settlers. The spot is called Massacre Canyon. The old Oregon Trail entering Nebraska at a point near Fairbury, Jefferson county, wound its way to the northwest, crossing the south fork of the Platte near North Platte, and continuing northwest through where Gering now stands, thence onward through Mitchell Pass to Fort Laramie, thence on to Fort Bridger and into the Oregon country.

We arrived at Sidney early Thursday morning and after breakfast we learned that this little city had been one of the toughest places in the entire West fifty years ago. It is now a clean and bright appearing town.
At this place a parade of farming implements was prepared for our inspection and must have proved most interesting to those acquainted with agriculture. These machines, to a city bred man, were marvels of construction and we were told they would general merchants to follow. The Cozad stop was made as a compliment to a man who knows how to use newspaper space and uses it. Cozad was the smallest town at which the special was scheduled to stop. And the stop was well worth while, for it is a beautiful little city of hospitable and enterprising people. We were greeted at the railroad station by a dozen or more persons dressed to represent the principles in the comic strips and their makeup and actions were most amusing. A delicious supper was served in the three churches of the place and followed by the usual drive through the surrounding country. Later in the evening there was a band concert and the usual speeches followed by a visit to the Anderson store. Cozad made a favorable impression on the editorial party.

Friday morning we reached the prosperous city of Kearney, and here after an appetizing breakfast, the local committee, taking pity on our exhausted

The New $10,000,000 Nebraska
Capitol

condition, made no formal plans and allowed us to do as we chose—a most gratifying situation to most of us. We were told that three miles out of the city was the half-way mark between Boston and San Francisco, 1733 miles in either direction, and the ranch at that point had been named "The 1733 Ranch" because of that fact.

A stop was made at the city of Grand Island, where lunch was served at the "pier," followed by a drive to the newly established Stolley Park.
It was said that this park was created by a man named Stolley, who, having been told that no trees would grow in that country, made the attempt and proved that trees would grow and grow luxuriantly. One of our editor friends from Nebraska told me that he knew Stolley and that both of them were "farmsters," a name given to those who were usually "against" the popular side of everything. It was on account of this characteristic that Stolley created the park.

In the evening we were splendidly entertained at Hastings, the home of the best known newspaper man of the West, Adam Brede, who, by the way, is also a noted big game hunter. Mr.

You won't need me any more

No more furnace stoking, ash sifting or damper regulating when your home is heated by Gas. You can throw away the coal shovel, out the fuel bin. Your rooms will be kept at even temperature no matter what the weather. The modern gas furnace (made in many sizes) will run your heating system, whether you use warm air, steam, hot water or vapor heat. Gas heating does away with the purchase and storage of all solid or liquid fuels, and is paid for only after using. All this is well worth looking into. Martin-Gotshall Hub Champions
Donald Martin and Abbott Gotshall won the men's doubles title in the City of Boston tennis tournament last Sunday afternoon at the Woodbourne Tennis Club, Forest Hills, defeating Woodbury and Drake in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4. The finals provided good tennis although the winning pair did not have a difficult time of it in upsetting their opponents.

Training for Grid Season

Two local youths are preparing for the coming football season by training in the now famous manner that "Red" Grange did while at the University of Illinois. Charlie McVarish and John Powers, both of West Newton, and both well-known athletes are working side by side as ice men. McVarish completed a year at Gonzago School, Washington, D. C., a couple of months ago. While there he participated in sports and won his letter. In the fall he will enter Villanova and his many friends are looking forward to seeing him in action against Boston College before many seasons. McVarish lives on Cherry street, and is one inch short of six feet, weighing 170 pounds. He plays first base on the diamond, end or guard on the football eleven and goes out for field events in track. Powers lives on Webster street, is the same height as his companion but weighs five pounds less. He played the backfield for St. Mary's high school of Waltham last year and on several occasions in the game with Newton high made good gains. He is also a capable ball-player either on the mound or at first base. He will enter Manhattan college next month.

Noble Has Busy Week

Arthur Noble of Newton Centre, youthful tennis player and one of the mainstays of the Newton high net team last spring has been having a busy week. Saturday he played three matches at Cohasset in the Cohasset Golf Club's invitation tournament for the championship of the South Shore. He won his first round match, 6-0, Edward C. Johnson, Yd., 6-4, 6-2 but dropped the second round match to Alden Briggs, 1-6, 2-6. Paired with Miss P. Little in the mixed doubles they found themselves on the short end of their first round match with Mrs. H. Gleason and E. Floyd, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. Monday the local lad appeared on the North Shore where he won his first round match, shutting out Allen Charter of Manchester, 6-0, 6-0. His next jump was to Manchester, New Hampshire, where he entered the contest for the open title for the Granite state. Here he entered the second round when his opponent defaulted. Hamilton Dissell, another Newton Centre tennis player, was put in the first round on the North Shore by G. M. Hall of Concord, 6-1, 6-1.

Hill Wins and Loses

Members of the Yale-Harvard tennis team now playing in France were shut out Saturday by experts of the Racing Club of France at Trouville. Malcolm T. Hill, captain of the Harvard freshman net team last Spring was defeated, 6-2, 6-2. Sunday playing at Deauville, Hill was one of the three Americans to win his match this evening up his play in the two days.

Martin Puts Out Ex-Captain

Donald Martin, fresh from his doubles victory with Gotshall in the Hub tournaments, entered the quest for the singles title at Manchester, N. H., on Tuesday. The fate of the draw matched him against John Carleton, ex-captain of Dartmouth and Oxford, England, tennis teams. The Waban youth went right after his opponent from the first serve and in the first set dropped but one game. Carleton fought hard before winning the second set, 11-9 and in the third set the local lad pulled out a victory 6-3.

Bond To Coach Crimson '31

Rufus H. Bond, former Everett High and Harvard athlete has been renamed an assistant coach of the Harvard freshman team this coming season. Bond has many friends in Newton through his connections as assistant to Mr. Ernst Herrmann, head of the Newton Playground department and secretary of the Newton Twilight league. The former Everett man graduated from Harvard in 1919 and played on the teams in which Eddie Casey was a star. Casey has been reappointed head coach of the freshman squad.

CAMP NEWS

By Harold P. Carver, N. H. S. '26

At the start of the summer many of the camps faced the difficulty of trying to outwit nature. Due to unforeseen circumstances, the first weeks of camp were unusually wet ones and if there is anything that tests the ingenuity of the leaders it is a rainy day in camp. Fortunately, as the season is drawing to a close the rain has ceased its action, and the activities are everywhere in full swing. Hikes are now almost over since the colder days are rapidly cutting into the time that previously was judged fit for hiking, and the camp itself is receiving more and more attention.

At Camp Passaconaway this week the big hikes all were sent out and returned successfully. The seniors pounded their way to the top of Mount Washington by means of the Crawford Trail, and were rewarded by a good view at the top. But the intermediates, the following day, went up the same way and were the most fortunate of all, for they made the top on the finest day that there has been in the White Mountains for some three weeks. The juniors went on mass on the Lost River trip. This trip takes the boys through the Notches, to the Old Man of the Mountain, Indian Head, and ends up with the time-honored test of weight, the Lemon Squeeze in Lost River. After the hikes were over, the various competitions again stepped into the line. The seniors beat out more honors home from the Alton Bay track meet than have ever been brought before. The relay team composed of Jimmy Sargent, Dick Hoey, Carter Thayer and John Bishop romped home with the silver cup that meant the best at the meet. In the potato race Billy Dickinson raced to a win, forced by both Burton Woodward, who took second place, and Dick Hoey, the third-place winner. Red Stoddard in the shot put and high jump took two third-place ribbons, and as a result the Honors case was loaded with the grand total that the youngsters won against fairly stiff opposition.

The archery tournament held on the new green was one of the gala events of the season, for the campers were closely matched. Charles Lynde was well in the lead on the first round, but by the time Joseph Wesson had shot his last set the scores were very close. Robert Bankart of Newton crowded the heels of Lynde also in the last round. The final results read: Wesson, Lynde, Robert Bankart. Bankart is one of the most improved archers in the camp, having just started the sport this year and attaining an unusual degree of efficiency in it.

One of the last baseball games of the season was played with Camp Waubunaki on Tuesday with Passaconaway winning by the score of 4 to 3. The winning run cantered over on Richard Hennessey's single, a sacrifice, a steal, and then John Locke dropped a squeeze bunt down in time to let Hennessey score with the winning run. Robert Chapin shone in the hitting, while the play of young Robert Lincoln at second base was very pleasing to see.

Mishe Mowkwa have also been hitting the trail and Len Clark was one of the trail takers for he scrambled up the steep sides of Chocorua without a great deal of trouble. Although he has been laid by for a short time with a cramped finger, he is around again and running the boats as usual.

Richard Gibbs of Newton Highlands, who is at Camp Wampanoag, has developed into a well-rounded athlete, for he can do 13 3/5 seconds for the 25-yard dash in the water, and on land he is the fastest of some of the first runners that the camp has seen. His training under Harold Rising's coaching should help him when he again tries out for the Newton track squad.

At Camp Wickabog, the first step that takes place in the camp season is the initiation of the neophytes into the Order of Massasoit. This secret society has for itself certain standards of manhood and the members have a thorough trip through the horrors before being allowed to hold seats at the council. The four signs that are emblematic of what the organization aims at are: Loyalty, brotherliness, cleanliness, manliness. The system of cleanliness is unique in that each bungalow is expected to keep ahead of the others, and the one that succeeds in so doing is judged the best bungalow. Denman Thompson has done some remarkable work in stoyd under Mr. Swan's direction, making some trays, and performing other valuable bits of wood carving in an effort to make the camp more decorative. One of the finest things that this camp puts out is the publishing of a camp paper, called the "Wickoit," a composite of Wickabog and Massasoit. This new little brief is entertaining and at the same time very informative of all the matters that go on in camp. They have a unique way of reporting baseball games, yet it is most interesting to see the work of the boys who really enjoy doing newspaper work of the sort. The bi-team came in with a victory, thanks to the hitting of Ivan Hoyt and also his pitching. The actual score was that of 7 to 6, with the Hudson scouts taking the lower score. Denman Thompson and Allen were fielding stars that helped the Wickabog group to victory. This camp as a whole is a new venture. Dr. Gilbert has based his whole scheme on the idea of training that farming used to give the American youth and on that plea he rests his whole case. Each boy has a garden to take care of, and the season is made a contest to see which one of the group can raise and produce the best garden stuff. The whole scheme seems attractive, since it is very true that farm work is the best sort of conditioner that the world knows, and Dr. Gilbert is to be congratulated on his apparent success with the idea.

NEWTON SPORTS

Form All-Star Outfit

John Fitzgerald, former Saxony Mills team manager, has announced the formation of a team of All-Stars picked from the various teams in the Newton Twilight league with the exception of the Upper Falls and West Newton colored teams. Just what effect this will have upon the league itself is problematical but it obviously cannot strengthen the league any. On the contrary it will probably have the opposite effect. The Newton Twilight League was formed by the playground department in order to give the youth of the city a chance to play ball during the daylight saving hours. With a large number of teams throughout the city all clamoring for permits to use the nearest diamond and bringing outside teams into the city a difficult problem. With few fields adaptable for twilight games all could not be accommodated. In order to give the greatest number a chance, the league of teams within the city, with a set schedule of games with each other nines, was formed. This naturally cut the number of teams requesting permission for the use of each field in half and helped to solve the difficulty.

The formation of an All-Star outfit composed of the leading players in the Twilight league will soon lead to a return of the former difficulty. When the few teams, capable of playing the same class of ball as the new outfit are conquered it will be only natural for them to wish to bring outside teams in for games and the players' interest and the fans' interest will soon wane. Over one hundred players now take part in twilight league games, most of which are closely contested because of the fact that there are but a few outstanding players on each team. By taking these dozen or more players and making one team of them, interest will be cut down in proportion to the number of games played.

Benefit Game On Wednesday

Next Wednesday night on the West Newton Common the West Newton A. C. will play a team of All-Stars composed of other league players. Secretary Bond will pick the All-Star aggregation which will have no connection with the other All-Star nine recently formed. The game will be for the benefit of Willie Lomax, former W. N. A. C. player, who has been very ill for some time.

League Meeting Tonight

This evening at the Newton Centre playground house there will be a meeting of the league officials and the managers of the nine teams in the league.

Miss Ellison Makes Best Gross

Miss Harriet Ellison, playing in the woman's invitation golf tournament at Bass Rocks on Wednesday made the best gross and second best net score with an 87 and eight strokes for a 79. Miss Frances Stebbins, another local woman golfer entered, was ten strokes behind her fellow-citizen with a 97 and six strokes for a 91 net score.

Mahoney Aids Southie

The South Boston nine of the Great er Boston Twilight League caught up with the second half leading Malden team on Tuesday night by nosing out Reading 3 to 2 at the South Boston playground. Neil Mahoney played a great game for the winners behind the bat and also with the bat where he gathered two hits. Joe Kerrivan, outfielder, and local youth, made one single and counted one of Southie's few runs.

Osborne Headed for Yale

Lloyd Osborne, Newton High's star swimmer, will enter Exeter academy this fall where he should make a fine addition to the ever-strong Exeter swimming team. When the Newtonville youth finishes his course at the noted New Hampshire academy he will enroll at Yale, from which college his older brother, "Shad" graduated recently.

Clausen To Run At Topsfield

Tom Clausen of Holy Cross and now a member of the B. A. A. track team is entered in the quarter and half miles at the K. of C. meet to be held by Valladolid Council of Lynn in connection with the Topsfield Fair on Saturday. If a walking event is carded Ed. Wilson, New England outdoor amateur champion, will be the B. A. A. entry.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and a tulle veil trimmed with orange blossoms. Her maid of honor wore orchid organdy.

The church was tastefully decorated with gladioli. The wedding march was played by Miss Kathleen Pounds of Arlington.

STEALS STONEWALL

Philip Pintabona of Underwood park, West Newton, was found guilty by Judge Hannon in the Waltham court on Friday on the charge of larceny of a portion of a stonewall from the Leadbetter estate on Highland street, Weston, on July 6. Alexander Sauer of Weston, a trustee of the Leadbetter estate, was the complainant.

He testified that on July 6 he saw Pintabona rolling stones from the wall and placing them on a truck. When he remonstrated, he testified that the defendant threatened to wallop him with a stone. Sauer's testimony was corroborated by his wife and daughter.

Pintabona testified that he was building a cellar on land adjoining the Leadbetter estate and was taking the stones from there. He disclaimed either taking any of the wall, as accused by Sauer, or that he had threatened the latter. Judge Hannon fined Pintabona $25. An appeal was taken.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

The announcement by Alderman Walter Hodgdon of his candidacy for the office of Mayor at the coming municipal election means that there will be at least one opponent against Mayor Childs. There is little doubt but that the present Mayor will be re-elected. He should win "hands down," assuming that a fairly heavy vote will be cast. Should a light vote be cast, Mayor Childs might find the opposition worthy of notice.

Mr. Hodgdon's candidacy will not be taken seriously by many. Neither was Mr. Childs' candidacy when he first ran for the office he has occupied for such an unusual length of time. There are those who will consider the Ward 5 alderman presumptuous for aspiring to the office of Mayor: there were those who considered Mayor Childs presumptuous, when he first ran for the office. Some still think so.

In our humble opinion, Mayor Childs will be re-elected for another term, no matter who runs. Some persons believe Mr. Childs can be re-elected as long as he "chooses" to be a candidate. Other persons think "that if Mr. Childs continues to run, some day he will meet defeat." On the whole, we prefer to see a contest: it tends to awaken interest in the affairs of the city.

Talking about Mayor Childs' first candidacy for Mayor. He ran against Allston Burr, who was the candidate of the Republican Party, and who was considered an easy winner by those supposed to be politically wise at that time, 1913. Mr. Burr had served as Alderman. He was a member of a former Mayor, a successful banker, and popular. Much consternation was caused by his defeat. But this defeat did not sour him against his fellow citizens. He proved himself a big man, and a real lover of Newton, when he and other members of his family donated their estate on Park street, Newton, to the city as a playground, and gave many thousands of dollars to prepare and equip this playground.

A reader of the GRAPHIC has sent a protest against motorcycles being allowed to make such an infernal racket in this city. This protest is justified. It is against the law for motorcycles to be operated with the exhausts of their motors open, just as it is against the law for automobiles to be operated in this manner. Automobile motors must be muffled. Why, as our protesting reader says, "are not the motorcycle motors compelled to be muffled?"

Several years ago Newton was zoned, after considerable agitation. The city was divided in manufacturing zones, business zones, and residence zones. No business is supposed to be conducted in residence zones, unless it was established in its present location before the zoning ordinance was passed in 1922, or unless special permission is obtained from the Board of Aldermen and the Mayor. In different parts of the city persons have started, and are conducting business enterprises in residence zones in violation of the Zoning Ordinance. Who is responsible for the enforcement of the Zoning Ordinance, and why is it not being enforced? If persons are allowed to flout this ordinance, will it not gradually become ignored?

In Monday morning's mail we received a letter from some reader who did not sign his (or her) name, correcting a statement made in our article in last Friday's GRAPHIC regarding the old Hyde Block. The letter states, "I notice in this week's issue that you state the old Hyde Block was demolished when the Taylor Block was built. I beg to inform you that this block is now standing in Pearl court."

The person who wrote this letter is right. The old block was moved to the rear of its former site, as were some of the old houses on what was formerly known as Trowbridge court, and converted into tenements. The entrance to these tenements, and the court on which they are located, is known as Pearl court.

Altogether too much space is given by newspapers in dwelling on the alleged, or actual great precautions being taken by federal, state and municipal authorities to guard against reprisals by the "Reds" to revenge Sacco and Vanzetti. If all this publicity about probable bomb outrages continues, it will be indeed fortunate if some weak-minded fanatic, through persistent suggestion, does not indulge in terrorism, and take innocent lives. Usually when bombs have exploded, most of the victims have been working people. The newspapers should "lay off" on the hue and cry about "reds" and bombs.

About 15 months ago, more or less, we had to chronicle so many arrests of soused automobilists charged with driving "while under the influence of liquor" that we decided to follow the example of Delcavere King, and devise a new word to define the offence caused by mixing gasoline and hooch. So we abbreviated the term ordinarily used to designate drunken driving by taking the first letter of each of the words in the phrase—"while under the influence of liquor." The result was "WUTIOL." We gave due explanation of this contribution of ours to contemporary language, and have used the expression quite frequently since.

The other day the GRAPHIC telephone rang and the lady who called our office desired to know what "wutiol" meant. She had telephoned the Boston police and the Newton police, but those who were on duty at either of these two department headquarters could not enlighten her as to the meaning of the word. She had never seen the word used in other papers, and naturally she was puzzled. We asked Henry Tibbitts, day clerk at police headquarters, if he had answered the telephone call of the lady who sought information on the new word. Henry asserted that he was not the person who had answered the phone, as he has known the meaning of "wutiol" since the word made its first appearance.

THERESA H. MAHON

Theresa H. Mahon of 62 Webster street, West Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mahon, died on Monday after a brief illness. She was employed at the West Newton Telephone exchange until the Thursday preceding her death. Her funeral services were held on Wednesday at the St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, and burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham. Besides her parents, she is survived by three brothers and four sisters.

UNLICENSED GIRL DRIVER CAUSES CRASH

As John Gaziano of 502 California street, Newtonville, was driving his coupe on Taylor street, Waltham, last Friday morning, his car was hit in the rear by an auto operated by Madeleine DeRusha of 21 Pine street, Waltham. Gaziano's car was driven into a tree and badly damaged; he was thrown out and received cuts on his face and limbs. When Inspector Tracy of the Waltham police arrived on the scene, he found the DeRusha girl in a nearby house. She admitted never having had a license to drive. She was fined $25 in the Waltham court. The auto she was driving, owned by Joseph Riley of Parmenter road, West Newton, was damaged in the collision.

NORDEN, WHO WAS MISSING, RETURNS

Swan Norden, who disappeared from his home at Evergreen avenue, Auburndale, and who was missing for several days, returned to his home last Thursday, and stated he had been at the Massachusetts General Hospital. He asked for a physician, and when one came, he found that Norden had indications of a fractured hip. The man was taken to the Newton Hospital.

DOG BITES BOY

M. J. McHugh of 87 Waban park, Newton, reported to the police last Friday night that his boy had been bitten by a dog owned by John Gardner of 86 Waban park. The dog was ordered restrained, and City Veterinary Boutelle notified to examine him.

While we are reluctant to admit it, we cannot help reaching the opinion that a large part of the agitation about the Sacco-Vanzetti case is largely, if not wholly, due to the amount of space which has been given by most of the Boston newspapers. An analysis of what has been printed will show that 90 per cent. of the twaddle and puff published as news is mostly the result of brain storms in the minds of the reporters. Just why anyone should be interested in the fact that one of these murderers drank a cup of coffee while the other refused any food, is a conundrum, and yet such stuff is featured as "news" in many newspapers. Again, we fail to see how any intelligent person can connect the fact that a bomb was exploded in the residence of the Mayor of Baltimore with the agitation over Sacco-Vanzetti in Massachusetts, and yet that connection was hinted at by Boston newspapers. If the newspapers would shut down in the future on the kind of stuff they have been printing the past few weeks, there would be far less talk about riots and bombs and far less uncertainty in the community.

President Weeks' attitude towards the use of the charter objection may be correct, but after many years of experience in municipal legislation, we have found that on matters relating to the assessment of betterments, it is important to have every phase of legislation absolutely correct. It is possible that the courts may say that a motion to reconsider the vote adopting the order for widening of Elm street might well be one of the stages of legislation to which the charter objection would apply.

We have grave doubts of the value of the proposed changes in mail service just announced by the Post Office department. At present the night collection of mail matter is taken to the local station and sorted, the local mail remaining in Newton. To carry all this local mail to Boston and then return the local mail to Newton must inevitably slow up the prompt delivery of local matter.

The publication of the names of contributors to the defence fund of the Sacco-Vanzetti committee and how it has been expended would make extremely interesting reading and might give us an inkling of the power behind that organization.

Parents, members and campers about the lake enjoyed the Circus at Camp Frank A. Day, Saturday afternoon. The program opened at 3 o'clock, with a slide show under the direction of "Bud" Perry. It included all the various freaks, strong men, fat ladies, human skeletons, and other novelties. The next big event was a parade headed by the clown band. A long procession of clowns, acrobats and animals followed.

The different tents contributed their share to the big ring acts, the last event of the afternoon. The special feature of these acts was a group of interesting pyramids under the leadership of Philip Perry.

In the evening there was a play given by the camp members. The principal actors were Milton Edgar, E. Granger Hapgood, Newton High, Robert Sallinger, Newton High, and Charles J. Smith.

The following boys from Newton went up to Camp Frank A. Day, Wednesday afternoon: W. Gordon Lyon, Newton Centre; Andrew A. Wilcox, Newton; Howard Blair, West Newton; Richard and Robert Young, Newton Centre; Christopher and Cal Guiry, West Newton; Allen Whitehead, Newtonville; William Perry, Newton; Edward Meissner, Waban; Anthony Cappadano, Auburndale.

The following boys returned from Camp Frank A. Day, Wednesday morning: Richard Lawrence, Chestnut Hill; Robert Pimpton, Newton Centre; Hollace and Myron Whalin, Chestnut Hill; William R. Lovstuter, Newtonville; W. Kimball Mitchell, Newton Highlands; Paul Heinrich, Auburndale.

Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday the Knott-hole Gang will attend the baseball game at Braves Field. The Braves team are playing St. Louis.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

Having heard from different sources "that Mayor Childs has made the statement that he will not run for reelection in 1929," we called the mayor on the telephone, and quizzed him on this rumor. He replied, "There are lots of rumors around." From this reply, and the inflection of the Mayor's voice, as he made it, it is our humble opinion that His Honor has authorized no person to authenticate the report "that he will not be a candidate in 1929." While there are some who would not overwork their lachrymal glands, should the Mayor make such a decision, there are many who are of the belief that if the Mayor makes his farewell appearance as a candidate in 1927 it will be of that type of farewell peculiar to Adeline Patti and Harry Lauder. Of course, if Mr. Childs should make a statement substantiating the rumor, all doubts would be removed, but until he does so, most persons will agree with him "that there are lots of rumors around."

The other day, as we drove past the old cemetery at the corner of River and Cherry streets, West Newton, we noticed that the grass there had been allowed to grow high. Yesterday as we went by the old cemetery at the corner of Centre and Cotton streets, we observed it to be in a similarly neglected condition. These two old burial places, together with the old cemetery on Winchester street, Newton Highlands, contain the remains of hundreds of those who were among the early settlers of Newton. These old cemeteries should be properly cared for by the City of Newton, which owns them. The grass in them should be mowed more frequently. Newtonians of today owe a debt to those who were largely responsible for making this city the attractive place it is. The burial places of Newtonians of the past centuries should be accorded more attention.

DANGER TO CHILDREN

The committee of playground directors in Eastern Massachusetts that has been co-operating with the Massachusetts Safety Council in a study of children's accidents on the highway, reports that the experience of the first seven months indicates that 1927 is becoming an exceedingly dangerous year for children. And this in spite of compulsory insurance and the offer of Governor Fuller to award a silver trophy to the three cities and towns showing the best reduction in automobile accidents.

While this statement will not apply to certain communities, it is true of the state as a whole. Up to August 8, 138 children had been killed as against 123 for the same period in 1926. Last year the record of children's accidents ran high from August on through November, and if this holds true this year, 108 children now alive will be killed before December 1, and 2800 injured in the state.

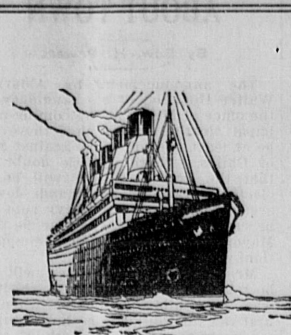

The one encouraging factor—and this is of local interest—is that July did not show an increase of children's accidents in the 18 cities and towns that are giving safety instruction on their playgrounds this summer.

Of the 23 children killed in July, only nine were in these cities, which include the metropolitan area, and 13 of the 18 had no child fatalities reported.

The committee of playground directors strongly urges a fuller co-operation of the public in obtaining the widest use of the playgrounds during August, not only because the child is off the street while there, but because of the safety instruction that is being given.

A unique feature of the summer campaign is the plan that the summer worked out to have the children themselves "sell" the playground to boys and girls who do not come to it. When one of them brings a new recruit to the playground regularly for one week, he is made a member of the "I-brought-a-pal" Club, and is given a membership button.

The children in greatest danger, according to the statistics just studied, are from three to six years of age inclusive, and neither motorists nor parents are giving enough attention to this fact.

POLICE NEWS

Wilson Mackay of 28 Warwick road, West Newton, was arrested at 2:30 a. m. yesterday by Officers Tomkins and Goodale, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He will be tried Aug. 18.

Albert McNamara of North Harvard street, Allston, was in court yesterday and was fined $15 for not having his automobile properly lighted, and $10 for violating a rule of the Metropolitan Park Commission.

Judge Bacon yesterday fined J. Ellis Starret of St. Stephen street, Boston, $10 for speeding.

Wednesday afternoon about 5:30 a telephone call was received at police headquarters that a battle royal was in progress at a new bungalow on Wiltshire road, Newton, which is being erected for Frank Vincenzo, an Adams street shoe merchant. When Vincenzo went to his bungalow Wednesday evening, he found a lively row being staged there. When the police arrived two of the warriors had vanquished, but two more were captured; they were William J. Kelly, Jr., of Randolph and William Newlands of Cambridge. These young men were installing the plumbing in Vincenzo's new house, but according to the charges made against them in court yesterday they had turned their attention from providing water for Vincenzo; instead they had provided themselves with his wine. Vincenzo testified that a room in his bungalow had been entered and about 50 bottles of wine stolen. Judge Bacon fined Newlands and Kelly $15 each for drunkenness, and $50 each for larceny. Both appealed the fines on the larceny charges.

Joseph H. Taylor, 61 Union street, Newton Centre, was in court Saturday charged with unlawfully diverting electrical current from the wires of the Edison Company. Taylor runs a tailor shop at the Union street address, and on the night of August 1st while the testimonial to retiring Assistant Chief George Stacy was in progress, Chief Randall had to depart quickly from the banquet when Box 7 came in for a fire in Taylor's tailor shop. The fire was caused by a short circuiting. During the examination of the premises, it is alleged that evidences were found which showed that the wires in the shop had been tampered with so that the electric "juice" was obtained without it passing through the meter. The police were notified, and Taylor was summoned to court. His case was continued until August 16.

James McDonough of 280 E. Ninth street, South Boston, an alleged member of a gang from that district, was in the Newton Court on Monday charged with the larceny of several cases of medicinal liquor from the Hudson Drug Store at Newton early on the morning of August 2nd. It is alleged that McDonough was one of a "mob" of four that drove into Pearl Court in an automobile, forced an entrance into the rear of the store, and stole the entire stock of liquor without leaving even one prescription. Patrolman Frank Feeley and Inspector Conroy were assigned to the case, and McDonough's home at South Boston. The names and residences of the other three alleged burglars were given to the South Boston police by the Newton officers, but to date, the South Boston cops have not taken them into custody. McDonough was held in $2000 for a hearing on August 19.

John L. Sullivan of 905 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, was fined $100 in the Newton Court on Wednesday.

Serg. Richard Bannon was operated on for appendicitis at St. Elizabeth's Hospital on August 4. He is recovering rapidly.

Five drunks were arrested over the week end.

day for driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested by Officer Forristall after he had insisted on driving his car when warned not to do so.

Walter Liberty of Auburndale was in court on Wednesday, having been brought from New Hampshire to answer charges of violating his probation, and neglecting to provide for his wife and children. He was ordered to pay his wife $25 a week, and to pay the court $15 for expenses incurred in bringing him from New Hampshire.

Roderick McDonald of 178 Chapel street, Newton, reported to the police on Tuesday that his son had been bitten by a dog owned by Mrs. Sarah McGarry of Wiltshire road. The dog was ordered restrained and Dr. Boulette, City Veterinarian, was notified to examine him.

The police are endeavoring to find the person who pulled a false alarm from Box 282 at California and Nevada streets on Tuesday night, and who attached a card to the box which bore the inscription "Sacco Vanzetti, Our Gang, K. K. K."

Orrin Champlain, Jr., of Charles-barn road, Newton, was found not guilty in the Newton court on Monday by Judge Bacon on the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor, and of driving without proper lights. He was found guilty of drunkenness and fined $15. Patrolman Weathers of the Metropolitan police testified that he had come upon Champlain on the river boulevard trying to fix the lights of his auto; the battery had run down. Weathers admitted he had not seen the defendant driving the car.

Newell Hamilton of Memorial drive, Cambridge, was arrested early Monday morning by Patrolmen Conlon and Halloran charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, and driving without a license or registration. He will be tried Aug. 16.

Christophe Murrin of Roxbury was found guilty of vagrancy in the Newton court on Monday and sentenced to the State Farm.

ROTARY CLUB

A party of forty or more Rotarians and their wives held an enjoyable outing at Camp Mary Day, Newton Girl Scout camp in Cohituate, last Monday afternoon. A regular meeting was held following luncheon, which was served by the Girl Scouts. Those members who could not take the trip held a round table meeting at the Woodland Golf Club.

Dr. Edward Mellus, chairman of the outing committee, presided in the absence of President Cecil Clark. Following the business session and lunch, the campers, under the direction of the camp director, Miss Caroline Freeman, and her able assistants, an exhibition of camp activities was given by the Girl Scouts.

TAX RATE FOR 1927

Newton's tax rate for 1927 will be known this afternoon. The assessors expect to have their work on the tax rate completed shortly after noon. While the exact rate is not known as the GRAPHIC goes to press, it can be stated that it will be practically the same rate as in 1926, with the probability that it may be a trifle lower.

WHO WAS JOHN WARD?

brother William Ward, had a son John, born in 1691, and the old records of Newton show that five John Wards were born during the 18th century.

But the John Ward whose memory Mayor Childs honored by giving his name to the new school on Dolphin road, was of the eighth generation of the name in this community. He was born October 18, 1825, on Waban Hill, where his ancestors had tilled the soil for nearly two centuries. The following excerpts are taken from Newton papers published just after his death on March 1, 1911.

"John Ward was a native of Newton Centre, having been born here on October 18, 1825, and here he had lived all his life within sight of the birthplace of ten generations of Wards, and in him were concentrated all the sterling virtues of a sturdy race. Brought up in a Puritan household, with the meagre schooling of the period, he was a constant seeker after knowledge up to the time he was stricken. He was a strong character, of the type that has moulded New England into what she is. Plodding, patient, persistent, he was one of those builders of character and fortune, who may serve as a worthy example to the young men of the present and the future. Mr. Ward was always unassuming and deprecatory, but his interest in things worth while was constant until the end was near."

The foregoing tribute to John Ward was printed in the "Newton Circuit."

Another obituary notice reads:—

"As a boy of 15 he joined the historic First Church, and for more than seventy years was one of its most faithful and devoted members, serving repeatedly as deacon, Sunday school superintendent, and in many other capacities. He was a member of the first city government, when his brother-in-law, Hon. J. F. C. Hyde was mayor. As a farmer and horticulturist he was enterprising and progressive, and won many prizes at exhibitions. Quiet and unassuming in manner, he was universally respected for his wise judgment and his sterling character. A man of seasoned convictions, of deep spiritual nature, intensely interested in the progress of God's Kingdom, a generous supporter of all worthy causes, he ripened into a beauty and serenity of character rarely seen. His wife died some years ago, after years of invalidism, cheered by her husband's devotion, and they left no children. Of a family of ten children, he is survived only by Mrs. J. F. C. Hyde of Newton Highlands, and Deacon Samuel Ward of Newton Centre."

Besides having served as a member of the city government, John Ward was for many years a trustee of the Newton Savings Bank. He willed his estate for educational and religious purposes: to the French-American College at Springfield he bequeathed $10,000, to the Congregational Educational Society of Boston he left $12,000; the remainder of the estate he left in trust, the income to be divided into three equal parts each year, and to be paid to the American Board of Foreign Missions, the American Missionary Society and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

Many Newton residents, now middle aged, and elderly men, worked on John Ward's farm, as boys, picking peas, beans, and strawberries. His strawberries were large and luscious, and it required unceasing vigilance on his part to prevent a large percentage of these berries from entering the mouths of the pickers.

John Ward was born in the old homestead on Hammond street, but later removed to the dwelling on Ward street near Nobscoot road, this house having been erected about 1821. It is now occupied by Mr. Charles R. Davis. The old house where Mr. Ward was born was later remodelled and occupied by Thomas W. Proctor. It is now occupied by Mrs. Volusien Bourneuf.

Members of the ninth generation of Wards in Newton, and direct descendants of John Ward who came here in 1650, who still reside on parts of the original estate are Charles Grafton Ward of 121 Ward street, and Frederick A. Ward of 244 Ward street. C. Grafton Ward's house was built in 1821, and is almost on the identical site occupied by the old garrison house erected by John Ward in 1650. He has two sons, Joseph Grafton Ward, and William Buchanan Ward. To him, and to Miss Mary E. Hyde of 22 Floral street, Newton Highlands, the writer is indebted for much of the information contained in this article. Miss Hyde is the niece of John Ward, and the daughter of the late Hon. J. F. C. Hyde, Newton's first mayor.

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by
Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 20

In any discussion as to the information doubles, there is usually an agreement that a double of an original bid of one or two in a suit is an informative double and requires a bid from partner. A double of an original bid of three in a suit, however, means an informative double to some players and a business double to others. According to the generally accepted rule, a double of an original bid of one, two or three is an informative double but there are many very good players who doubt the value of this rule when applied to the value of a bid of three. They claim that it is so seldom of any value that it should be eliminated as an informative double and maintain that a double of three should always be regarded as a business double. The writer has frequently stated his opinion that such a double is on the border line but inclines to believe that the better result is obtained by regarding it as a business double. The following hand, however, happens to be one where the informative double would have worked beautifully:

Hearts—A, K, J, 4
Clubs—A, 8, 5, 4
Diamonds—K, 7, 6, 2
Spades—Q

Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid three spades. What should A bid? If the double of the three spade bid is regarded as informative, he should double for he can support any four bid by his partner. It is a perfect example of the type of hand that justifies an informative double of a three bid. On the other hand, if the double of a three bid is regarded as a business double, what should A bid? His best chance is to bid four hearts but whatever he does is guess work, and may cause a big loss. The hand is certainly a good argument for those who advocate the double of a three bid as an informative double but it is just as easy to find other hands to prove the contrary. The hand is given as an illustration of a well known convention and to bring out the differing viewpoints. It is a close question but whatever you decide to do under such circumstances stick to it and inform your partners of what you are doing. In that way only can you get the best results.

Here is a puzzling hand:

Problem No. 25

Hearts—K, 10, 7, 2
Clubs—K, Q
Diamonds—Q, J, 4
Spades—A, J, 8, 3

Z

Hearts—K
Clubs—9, 8, 7, 5, 2
Diamonds—5, 4
Spades—K, J, 9, 8, 3

Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump. All passed and A opened the eight of spades. Y played the deuce, B the queen and Z the seven. B now played the ten, Z the ace, A the trey and Y the four. How should Z size up the hand and plan the play? In the preceding article, the cards held by Y and Z were given. Now that the cards of A and B are also given, it is evident that when Z wins the second spade trick, he can go game by playing the ace of hearts and the ace of clubs. The drop of these two tricks enable him to make two heart tricks, four club tricks, two diamond tricks and one spade trick, nine in all. It is a tricky hand so don't be disappointed if you failed to figure out the correct solution.

Answer to Problem No. 24

Hearts—J, 7
Clubs—Q, 10, 8
Diamonds—7, 5
Spades—10, 9

Z

Hearts—9, 6, 2
Clubs—5, 4, 2
Diamonds—J
Spades—6, 4

Z

Hearts—Q, 8, 3
Clubs—J, 9, 7
Diamonds—none
Spades—A, K, 7

Hearts are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y-Z win six of the nine tricks against any defense? Z must lead the jack of clubs and overtake in Y's hand. If B takes the trick as he should and leads a spade, Z should win the trick and lead the nine of clubs, again overtaking in Y's hand. If B wins the trick and leads another spade, Z should win the trick and lead the seven of clubs, winning the trick in Y's hand with the eight. Y should then lead a diamond, trumping in Z's hand with the trey of hearts. He should then lead the seven of spades and trump in Y's hand. Y should now lead his last diamond. B can either trump or discard. If he forms, Z's queen of hearts will be good. If the latter, Z will trump with the queen of hearts. In either event, Y-Z must score one club trick, two spade tricks and three trump tricks. Note that if Z leads either a heart or a spade at the first trick, Y-Z can only make five tricks as B can set up a spade trick and give A a discard. Play this out for practice.

MORTGAGE MONEY

There is a distinct advantage in having home mortgages held by home institutions. More favorable treatment is natural when the applicant deals directly with the Bank and establishes intimate friendly relations than can be expected if he deals with those who are practically strangers.

Our service is friendly, courteous and efficient, and our terms on mortgage loans are reasonable.

MR. SCHMELTZ DEAD

Christian B. Schmeltz of Newton Centre died on Friday at the age of 81. He was born in Germany and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Schmeltz. At the age of six months he was brought to this country by his family, where they settled in New York city, and where Mr. Schmeltz received his education.

His first business connections were with Marcotte, the French decorator. In connection with his interior decorating experience he came to Massachusetts 45 years ago and became associated with the concern of A. H. Davenport. Thirty-five years ago he entered business for himself at Coolidge Corner, Brookline, and maintained an office on Beacon street in connection with his business until the time of his death.

Fifty-two years ago, Mr. Schmeltz married Miss Margaret Connell of Scotland. The ceremony took place in New York city. Seven years later they moved to Brookline, where they resided until the time of Mrs. Schmeltz's death in 1911. In 1917, Mr. Schmeltz moved to Newton Centre. He was a member of the Episcopal church.

The survivors include two children, W. Sherman Schmeltz of Newton Centre and Mrs. Helen L. Rice of Paris, France.

THE CHILDREN'S MUSEUM

On Sunday, Aug. 14th, at 3:30 o'clock, motion pictures of our greatest National Park, the Yellowstone, will be shown at the Children's Museum of Boston, Jamaica Plain. The scenic wonders, such as the geysers, hot springs, canyon and falls, will be vividly portrayed, as well as open-air life, including a herd of buffaloes and several bears. Miss Pearl Bragdon of the museum staff, who has taken a five-day bus trip through the park, will relate some of her experiences there, and take the audience with her on an imaginary trip through this beautiful region.

Another one of the interesting and profitable Exchange Bureau Field trips will be taken on Wednesday, Aug. 17th. The group will leave the museum at 9:15 a. m. for the Arnold Arboretum, where evergreen trees will be the main study for the day. On the following day, the usual 9:30 to 12 o'clock laboratory meeting will be held at the museum for arrangement and identification of specimens collected, and for reports from members on the individual research in natural history subjects.

The subjects for the illustrated 3 o'clock half-hour stories at the Children's Museum are:
Monday, Aug. 15—"Our Noisy Frogs."
Wednesday, Aug. 17—"The Seven Sons," a Jewish fairy tale.
Friday, Aug. 19—"Strange Stories About Animals."

THE NEWTON ARCHERS

The Newton Archers were out in goodly numbers at the Newton Centre range on Saturday. Dr. Crouch, the Eastern champion, took the lead, closely followed by a Worcester visitor, A. W. Dick. Crouch is shooting in splendid form and the Newton Archers hope he is going to take the laurels from Spencer, the present National champion, who is coming from California to defend his honors. Mrs. Henry Cummings of Brookline, formerly Miss Dorothy Smith of Newton Centre, has returned from Europe and is now practising to retain her title of National Lady Champion.

The Newton range is getting famous. One of the Saturday visitors, who hails from Rochester, N. Y., is considering moving to Newton because of the exceptional archery facilities here.

EDWARD J. MURPHY

He is survived by three sons, Edward A., George J., and Joseph, and three daughters, Mary, Susan and Mrs. John Troy.

KIWANIS CLUB

The speaker at the Tuesday meeting of the Newton Kiwanis Club was Rev. Michael Ahern, S. J., of Weston, who spoke on the subject, "A Scientist Theologian's Comments on Evolution." Father Ahern, who has a national reputation as a scientist, proved one of the most interesting speakers who has appeared before the Kiwanis Club and his address was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. He told his listeners that the church wants facts, not theories, on evolution, and asserted that 85 per cent. of all the great scientists during the past several centuries have been men who acknowledged God. He explained plant and animal life to refute some of the contentions of those who hold that man is descended from the ape, because of certain similarities between the two species.

The delegation is making its headquarters at the Crescent Apartments, where Commander Ramm invites all Newton veterans to visit these quarters and all Newton Legion members to participate in the parade tomorrow afternoon.

The Newton delegates will vote favorably on the issue of admitting colored veterans to the "Forty and Eight," the fun-making adjunct of the Legion. Heretofore the colored men have been excluded. A movement has already been started by Newton Legion men to campaign for the election of Colonel Stopford as State Commander in 1930, following his return from the Philippines.

Rays Control Weight

The ultraviolet ray is equally effective as a weight reducer or producer, according to Drs. Livet and Vautier, who described to the Academy of Medicine the excellent results obtained when the rays were applied to a number of obese patients, bringing about a loss in weight of from eight to 20 pounds after 30 applications. The same rays, used to tone up debilitated patients, caused them to put on flesh.—New York World.

With proper attention and care, trees of small size will thrive in small patches of soil where larger trees, with their spreading root systems, might languish, says the American Tree association of Washington, D. PLAYGROUND FESTIVAL

Over Eight Hundred Boys and Girls Take Part in Interesting Affair on Newton Centre Playground

The annual playground festival of the Newton playgrounds was held Wednesday afternoon on the Newton Centre playground under the direction of Superintendent Ernst Herrmann, assisted by the directors of the various playgrounds throughout the city. The festival concluded the vacation schools on the sixteen playgrounds of the city. Approximately nine hundred children ranging from 5 to 16 years in age took part in the numerous competitive and exhibition events while eight hundred others and several hundred parents were spectators. In contrast to the showery weather which prevailed during the festivals last year the day was warm and sunny.

The program opened with a salute to the flag followed by the singing of America with the Newton Constabulary Band and a number of harmonica players furnishing the music. The former occupied a temporary stand and played for the various dances throughout the afternoon. Races for both boys and girls, including dashes, obstacle races and relay races made up part of the program. Final matches between teams which had previously won the championships of their respective playgrounds, were played in fist ball and dodge ball.

The folk dancing was a very pleasing part of the program. These dances included folk dancing by the little girls and by the older girls, prize dancing which was open to any two girls, clogging, an elf dance, a scarf dance, and esthetic dancing. Some 200 little girls, dressed in varicolored crepe paper dresses took part in the first dancing number which was won by the group from Auburndale. The clogging and elf dance, designed by Vestoff Serova, were very effectively put on by the participants.

Several selections by the harmonica band and by selected boys from each playground contributed their part to the enjoyment of the spectators.

At one end of the playground was an exhibit showing the work accomplished at the sixteen individual playgrounds during the vacation period. This exhibit attracted a large amount of attention both for the quality of workmanship and the range of articles. It would be impossible to describe the articles made at the different playgrounds but there was almost everything imaginable shown from fancy embroidery to model aeroplanes, not forgetting to mention the hooked and braided rugs, pillows woven from leather strips, small boats, canoe paddles, dolls clothing, paper articles of furniture, and the other numerous articles. The more difficult articles to make were made by the older girls while the paper furniture models, colored pictures, scrap books and so forth were the product of the younger boys and girls.

Many prizes were presented by Mayor Edwin O. Childs of Newton assisted by members of the playground commission, Albert F. Carter, Thomas J. Lyons, Charles F. Johnson, Jr., Ralph C. Henry and E. R. Spear.

The playgrounds of the city have been under the supervision of the following directors during the vacation period:

Burr, Mr. Guy S. Baker; Stearns and Victory, Mrs. Ragna Hovgaard and Mr. Nicholas P. Tedesco; Boyd, Mr. Henry P. Farrell; Hawthorn, Miss Lillian Swartz; Cabot, Mr. John McGrath; Horace Mann, Mr. Carl F. Holman; West Newton and Eden Avenue, Mr. Edward P. Breaux and Mrs. Margaret P. Hills; Auburndale, Mr. John F. ALDERMAN BAIL LEARNS THAT HE MAY RUN FOR MAYOR
Last night we telephoned Alderman Henry W. Ball of 1025 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, and asked him about the rumor "that he is being groomed to become a mayoralty candidate." He replied, "It is news to me." Mr. Ball did not say, "I do not choose to run for Mayor." Neither did he say, "I shall run for Mayor."

LIQUOR RAIDS

Six Speakeasies at Nonantum Visited By Police

It was "Friday the 13th" for the unlucky dupes of the stock sharks in the money literary production of the late "Tom" Lawson, but it was "Saturday the 13th" for a number of alleged dispensers of liquor at Nonantum. Emulating the famous coup by the Army of Paris, which turned back the Germans at the Marne after rushing to the fray in a fleet of taxis, the Newton police sallied forth from West Newton about 9:20 Saturday night in four automobiles headed for the corner of California and Chapel streets, where they deployed to various points. The "zero hour" was 9:30, at that time five squads headed by Serge. Leehan, Moran, Moran, Seaver and Veducio, went over the top to raid the enemies' dugouts. The raids were made almost simultaneously, so that the attack was a complete surprise.

Serg. Leehan with Patrolmen King and Reagan raided the house of Edward Norcross at 11 Faxon street and seized 1 3/4 gallons of alcohol contained in a pan and two empty gallon cans, four whiskey and two water glasses, and three dozen stoppers.

Serg. Leehan directed two others of his squad, Patrolmen Gaquin and J. Foley in a raid on the premises of Henry Hotin at 11 Faxon street. Here one quart of alcohol was seized, and as at Norcross's, it was also contained in a pan. Other articles seized here included two funnels, an empty quart bottle and three dozen stoppers.

While Serg. Leehan was supervising two raids at 11 Faxon street, Serg. Moran with Patrolmen Loughlin and Hannon was raiding the premises of Nicol Battiste at 11 Faxon street, and Serg. Veducio with Patrolmen Teagan and Joe Kelly was raiding the premises of Joseph Hopkins at 11 Faxon street. This address is a wooden tenement block, and according to the police, it was some oasis. In Battiste's tenement the articles seized included 5 1/2 gallons of beer contained in twenty-two quart bottles, one pint of alcohol, two empty glass jugs, and an empty gallon can. In Hopkins tenement, Serg. Veducio and his assistants seized 33 quarts of ale, an empty glass jug and 12 empty quart bottles.

While the squads under Serge. Leehan, Moran and Veducio were busy at 11 Faxon street, Serg. Moran with Patrolmen Charles Feeley and Dowling raided the house of Victor Gingras at 11a Dalby street and seized 1/2 gallon of alcohol, one pint of whiskey, 11 empty pint bottles, and two whiskey glasses. Serg. Seaver and Patrolman Walker raided the house of Michael Totaro at 286 Watertown street and seized 40 gallons of wine contained in 3 half-barrels, 12 1/2 gallons of beer contained in 36 quart bottles, 24 empty pint bottles, and a jug.

In the Newton court on Wednesday morning, those whose premises were raided, appeared to answer charges of making illegal sales, and keeping and exposing liquor for sale. The only defendant to plead was Victor Gingras of Dalby street. He was found guilty of making an illegal sale of liquor, and of keeping liquor for sale. He was fined $100 on each of the two counts, and given a suspended sentence of three months to the House of Correction. The other cases were continued until August 29 and 30.

DEATH OF MRS. SCARBOROUGH
The many friends of Mr. Paul C. Scarborough will sympathize with him in the death last Friday of his wife, Ethel N. Scarborough. Mrs. Scarborough, who was 40 years of age was born in Elbridge, N. Y., and was the daughter of Henry Lee and Ella Tolman Northup.

Besides her husband Mrs. Scarborough is survived by two children.

Mr. Scarborough is the master of the Peirce School in West Newton and will be the principal of the new Levi F. Warren Junior High school when it opens next month.

Funeral services were held from the home at 67 Davis Avenue West Newton on Monday Rev. Dr. Eaton of Wellesley, officiating, and the interment was in the Newton Cemetery.

PLAYGROUND WORK

Supt. Hermann Talks Before The Kiwanis Club

Supt. Ernest Hermann of the Newton Playgrounds addressed the members of the Newton Kiwanis Club on Tuesday on the subject of "Playgrounds." He recalled that 35 years ago he had read the first paper in this country on the subject of "Playgrounds." He predicted at that time that the playground movement would become one of the biggest things in America, and time has proved the truth of this prediction. Then, only a few deep thinkers here gave much consideration to this movement; now it is firmly established as one of the nation's principal activities for the benefit of the young. Mr. Hermann prophesied that within 15 years playground work in this country will quadruple, and that there will be no hesitancy in employing men and women for full time work on playgrounds, rather than for part time, as at present, in Newton and many other places.

He quoted Froebel and other eminent authorities to show that proper opportunities to indulge in play are of vital necessity to permit the right development of children. Only in play has the child a chance to manifest its creative instinct. If the children of our thickly settled communities had the open fields, the meadows, the woodlands, enjoyed by their parents, they would have ample spaces in which to play. But modern conditions deny them these recreation spaces; even the streets are closed to them because of the automobile traffic. It is absolutely necessary, therefore, to provide plenty of playgrounds, so that children in all sections of the city will have some place in which to play.

Mr. Hermann contrasted the home life of today with that of former generations. Few fathers today come as closely in contact with their children as is desirable. Instead of engaging in their occupations on their own premises, as in the past, most men work away from home, and thus the boys have no opportunity to assist their fathers in occupational work. The "tin can" age, as Mr. Hermann designated it, has abolished the many household duties which formerly were the tasks of mothers and daughters in homes. Prepared foods, manufactured clothes, modern household methods, have deprived the present day girls of the chance to develop their creative instinct. Children are imitative. Play affords them the chance to imitate. Children inherit the activities of their ancestors. Games played today are racially old. Baseball, with its throwing of the ball, the use of the bat, the efforts to catch the base runners, is atavistic. The foundation for this game was laid back in those remote times when our ancestors threw stones, used war clubs, and had to run fast and frequently to save their lives. Many games show this atavistic tendency.

Play is more than a pastime. With modern conditions not allowing the natural unfolding of the child, play is more vital than ever. A child's character is developed before the age of 12. In the years preceding that age, it must have opportunity to properly develop not only its character, but also its body, for these same years also develop the mind.

NEWTON SPORTS

Noble in Final

For the third consecutive year Arthur Noble of Newton Centre and John Richardson of Staten Island will compete in the finals of the North Shore junior tennis tournament. Richardson provided an upset in the semifinal round by disposing of John Lorenzen, doubles partner of Noble, who was picked to enter the finals. The winner was seeded No. 3 and Lorenzen No. 2. Noble, seed No. 1, defeated Laurence Freeburg of Winchester, 6-1, 13-11, in the first round; Bravo Bender of Cambridge, 6-1, 6-9, in the second; drew a bye in the third, and defeated Harry Greenberg of Malden, State boys' champion, 6-4, 6-3 in a quarter-final match. In his semifinal go the local lad had little difficulty in disposing of Charles Dulea, 6-0, 6-1. Rain spoiled the play for the title yesterday. In the doubles finals Noble and Lorenzen will oppose Richardson and Talbot. In the mixed doubles Noble and his partner, Mary Ross, have advanced to the semifinals.

Chandler Hovey Wins Again

Chandler Hovey's 40-foot craft, the Pampero, won its race in the Wednesday run of the New York Yacht Club from New London to Newport. In the race for New York 40-footers the Pampero had a lead of five minutes at the finish line. The local entry also won the race for special sloops with a few seconds less than two minutes to spare.

Newton Boxer Loses Decision

John Ryan, local fistie exponent, lost the decision to Tony Ferris of Lawrence Wednesday night in the final of the 135-pound class at the Amesbury American Legion annual amateur tourney in one of the best contests of the evening.

Next Walk On Labor Day

Ed. Wilson, B. A. A. and New England champion outdoor walker, is getting into shape for the one-mile walking event at Caledonian Grove on Labor Day.

Upper Falls Defeats Norwood

Sunday afternoon at the Newton Upper Falls playground the Upper Falls team defeated the Norwood Red Sox in a close and exciting game by a score of 2 to 1. Kenney was on the mound for the local nine while Riley and Fitzgerald were the opposing battery. Kenney was found for six scattered hits and fanned. All the Upper Falls batters could get off Riley was three bingles, four striking out. Simpson, DeGeorge and Proctor led the attack for the winners. In the first inning Simpson, first up, singled, took second on DeGeorge's sacrifice, and scored on Proctor's single. In the sixth Proctor doubled and scored on two infield outs. The visitors counted their only run in the eighth.

Somerville Cubs Win

The Newton Centre A. A. was on the short end of a 9 to 3 game with the Somerville Cubs at the Newton Centre playground on Sunday afternoon. McGuinness and Hurley were found for twelve hits. The visitors had one big inning, the second, when five runs were scored.

Local Pair In Essex Golf Tourney

Clark Hodder and Ted Learnard paired up in the golf tourney at the Essex Country Club in Manchester last week and advanced to the fifth round before being eliminated on Friday. In the fourth round the Newton youths had a real battle on their hands before defeating W. Shrigley and W. Day at the eighteenth hole by 1 up. Friday afternoon in the fifth round they opposed Clafin and Cutler and started off in fine shape winning the first two holes. At the sixth the match was squared up. A birdie 2 on the seventh by Cutler put his team in the lead, never to be headed. At the 15th Hodder and his mate were two down. On the next hole Cutler again came through to clinch the match 3 up and 2 to go.

"Iron-Men" Are Eligible

Eight of the eleven "iron-men" who played such remarkable football for the Brown University eleven last fall have been announced as eligible for the 1927 squad which will be called out in less than a month. Among the eight are Charlie Considine and Eddie Kevorkian, both former Newton high players. The former was the first string centre and the latter a first string guard on last year's outfit. Both are looking forward to another good season for the Brown Bear.

CAMP NEWS

By Harold P. Carver, N. H. S. '26

One more week. That is the saying that is flying from camp leader to themselves. Now is the time that each one sizes up his work and his play trying to see if he can find any gains or unusual achievements. If he has gained in character or courage, if he has become stronger or quicker, if he has more knowledge or intuitive learning, all these things should have been added to some degree. If the camp season has done him any good at all. Almost all the camps in their final week plan some sort of a big festivity in order to show the public what has been accomplished by that camp in the current season. Therefore the last week of camp is an exciting one, being in the main a race against time.

One of the best final exercises that the writer has ever seen is that staged by Camp Wampanoag on Cape Cod near Buzzards Bay. Here they put on the finest review that it is possible to give. They start the morning with either land or water sports depending on the tide. The land sports are made up of the dash, the high jump and the broad jump, while the aquatic division takes care of the swimming and boating. There are dashes, dives, and plunges, while in the boating there is the sail boat race, and the canoeing. In the same way there is the military drill, the community singing, setting up drill, tent inspection, and the buffet luncheon that is served by the director, Mrs. Taylor. This makes one of the most impressive sights that one can see.

Another camp on Lake Winnepesaukee that is famed for its accomplishments is Camp Acadia near Weirs. There always are a few Newton girls in attendance, and the organization has found favor with many families that live in the Garden City. All types of camp life are offered from camping to the most athletic of athletic sports. One of the most remarkable things about this camp is the Arts and Crafts division in which Miss Olive Murray, a Newton girl, has charge. Since Miss Murray is a principal in Lexington she has brought to camp with her one of the most valuable requisites for a good councillor, that of being able to set a schedule and what is more important of being able to keep to it. She has accomplished in one summer what one visitor called, "A whole winter's work!" The girls have painted various ships and made bags, some of them have spent a great deal of time on rugs, and the most unique arrangement of all is the use of boats as door stops. These ships are made of iron, and come already to be painted by the girls. Miss Murray allows the girls a free choice of colors, and then simply holds them to the task begun. There is one large room given over to her work and the display is wonderful according to all the visitors. Recently the girls gave a play called the "Captivating Principal." Among the characters was Ruth Howlett of Newton who acted the part of an almost college young lady with considerable zest. The parts were very well portrayed and the whole affair was carried off with much the same effect that all the Acadia dramatists achieve. One of the best effects that a Council Fire can give may be seen at Acadia on any Sunday night. The girls gathered around the fire, some seated on benches, others on the ground, the girls around the fire, some seated on benches, others on the ground, the girls around the fire, some seated on benches, others on the ground.

There is one large room given over to her work and the display is wonderful according to all the visitors. Recently the girls gave a play called the "Captivating Principal." Among the characters was Ruth Howlett of Newton who acted the part of an almost college young lady with considerable zest. The parts were very well portrayed and the whole affair was carried off with much the same effect that all the Acadia dramatists achieve. One of the best effects that a Council Fire can give may be seen at Acadia on any Sunday night. The girls gathered around the fire, some seated on benches, others on the ground, the girls around the fire, some seated on benches, others on the ground.

At Camp Wickaboag this past week two things seem to have had the most definite effect on the camp life. One of these was the trip to Camp Day and the subsequent ball game which the Wickaboags won by the one sided score of seven to one. The most important thing about the hike was, however, the manner in which it was accomplished. Some of the boys went by canoe, others went on horse back, and still others tried the old almost antiquated way known as "shank's mare." The trip was filled with all sorts of fun, but the biggest thrill came when Hoyt connected for a home run in the first inning of the ball game.

The other feature was the hike to Deerfield that took the Wickaboag group out for over night. The hikers or busses went through Greenfield and over to Mass. Aggies as well where they saw the pure bred cattle and other types of farm life. The last but not the least item of interest was the coming of Bill Vogt who is the national Fly and Ball Casting champion. He spent a great deal of time teaching the boys how to cast, and also how to cook in the open, and finally he even showed them some new tricks with wood.

Camp Anawan is preparing for their last and biggest water fete. Each year at the close of camp the girls have a splendid pageant which is so well thought of that people come from some distance around to view the spectacle. This year the announcements are not out as yet but it is understood that a great effort is being made to have it the best that has ever been presented.

On Bear Island the tribe of Passaconaway have been having a busy week plus. The golf tournament found David Scott leading the field home with a seventy five, the rifle sees most of the boys in the Senior camp shooting the match off, and the various competitions between the teams has been run off so well that almost all the competition is over. The camp defeated Camp Waubanki by the score of four events to nothing in the Field Day that was staged in the morning of Monday. Robert Chapin cinched the swimming meet with a racing start that opened water between him and his opponent. David Scott blew Frank Brissette, one of the best junior players in the state of Pennsylvania, off the tennis court with a terrific driving game. He won 6-4, 6-2. The Juniors then came through to victory with Billy Dickinson putting up the best game in the field and also at bat.

RESCUED FROM RIVER

NEWTON ARCHERS ENTERTAIN RIVALS

The Newton Archers are offering the facilities of their range at Newton Centre, for practice to all archers here for the purpose of attending the National Tournament at Soldiers' Field, Aug. 23-26. The guests are expected on Monday.

Several Newton people are entertaining archers in their homes at this time, among them being Mrs. Paul W. Crouch, Mrs. Burton Payne Gray and Miss Ruth Brewer, all of Newton Centre.

Mr. Louis C. Smith, the National President, and Dr. Paul W. Crouch, the Secretary-Treasurer, are planning unusual entertainments each evening at the Hotel Bellevue, which is headquarters. Among other things there will be a showing of Arthur Young's "Alaskan Adventures," a most interesting archery film, and a talk by "Crazy Bull" in costume, who became acquainted with Newton Archers in the sportsmen's show last winter.

TAPS LIGHT WIRE; APPEALS $100 FINE

Joseph H. Taylor, who conducts a tailor shop at 61 Union street, Newton Centre, was found guilty in the Newton Court on Tuesday of unlawfully using electricity without the consent of the Edison Company. It was charged that Taylor had tampered with the wires in his shop so that the current did not pass through the electric meter there. This was discovered when a fire occurred in the shop on the night of August 1. The fire was caused by a short circuit in a radio set. While inspecting the place after the fire, Chief Clarence Randlett observed a wire near the meter board that looked "queer." He called J. W. Edmunds, an expert electrician, and the latter found that the Chief's suspicions were correct. The Edison Company was notified, but when their representative arrived, the unauthorized wire had disappeared. Taylor's lawyer had not existed, and that the firemen were wrongfully accusing Taylor. Judge Allen fined Taylor $100. An appeal was taken.

DUNLAP-BRADLEY

Miss Helen L. Bradley, daughter of Mrs. Charles W. Bradley of Newton, was married on Thursday afternoon, August eleventh to Mr. John Spruce Dunlap of Moncton, New Brunswick. The wedding took place at the home of the bride, 31 Wesley street, at four thirty o'clock and was performed by Dr. Laurens MacLure.

The bride was given away by her mother. Miss Elizabeth Young of Newton was the flower girl.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with old lace. Her shower bouquet was of white roses and maiden hair fern.

A reception was held following the ceremony from four-thirty to six o'clock. The house was tastefully decorated with palms and roses. The bride party stood under an arch of ferns and flowers.

After a wedding trip to Casco Bay, Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap will reside at Moncton, New Brunswick.

The bride is a graduate of Miss Wheelock's School.

POLICE NEWS

In the Newton Court last Friday Joseph Fairclough of Roxbury and Phillip Wharton of Groton each was fined $10 for speeding. Louis Golding of 1230 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, was fined $10 for driving without a license.

In the juvenile session of the Newton Court last Friday the four Newton boys who broke into a number of houses in this city were tried. Arthur Cummings of Washington street was sent to the Lyman School; John Mitchell of Pearl street was sent to the Shirley School; Francis McCarthy of Nassau street and Timothy Delaney of Pearl street received suspended sentences and were placed on probation.

Richard Mason of Roxbury, who was arrested a couple of weeks ago by Officer Goodale for driving while under the influence of liquor, and who failed to appear in court last week on the day set for his trial, put in an appearance on Monday. His record, as read by Court Officer Eneagess, showed that he had been arrested a considerable number of times. He was fined $100 for driving while under the influence of liquor, and sentenced to the State Farm by Judge Bacon. He appealed.

Nicola Zeolla of 174 Chapel street, Newton, was in court Monday charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Recently a car driven by Zeolla collided on Chapel street with another auto, and overturned. About a half hour after the accident, he was arrested at his home by Policemen Walker and Feeley. Attorney John O'Neill, who appeared for Zeolla, raised the defense that his client was sober when the accident occurred, but that to quiet his nerves he started to drink wine after he went to his home.

Zeolla testified that he drank six or seven glasses of wine in rapid succession during the interval of 30 or 40 minutes intervening between the collision and the entrance of Patrolmen Walker and Feeley into his home. This intensive guzzling on his part was for the purpose of overcoming the effects of the crash. Attorney O'Neill contended that under certain conditions a man can become drunk in as short a period as 15 minutes. Judge Bacon apparently was skeptical, as he found Zeolla guilty and sentenced him to two months in the House of Correction, as it was his second conviction on a drunken driving charge. An appeal was taken, as O'Neill argued that no evidence was presented to prove that Zeolla was drunk while he was operating the car.

Edward Fisher of Hallam street, Dorchester, in the Newton Court on Monday, pleaded his own case on the charge of driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. Recently, while driving his Ford sedan along Boylston street, Newton Highlands, at the intersection of Walnut street, Fisher made the grievous mistake of stepping on the foot accelerator of the car, instead of the brake, when he tried to stop suddenly to allow another car to cross in front of him. The result was that Fisher's car dashed over the sidewalk, crashed through a hedge, smashed into a baby carriage, and continued on through another hedge. The tiny occupant of the baby carriage was hurled out but, fortunately, not injured. Judge Bacon accepted Fisher's explanation of the accident and found him not guilty.

Henry Dillon of West Newton was in court on Monday charged with speeding and driving without a license. Henry was fined $10 for speeding. He was fined $25 for not having a license, or $23 more than this little piece of paper would have cost him.

Joseph Connelly of Gerard court, West Newton, was ordered to serve a suspended sentence of three months in jail for drunkenness, and given a suspended fine of $20 for creating a disturbance, by Judge Bacon on Monday. His wife was given a suspended fine of $20 for disturbing the peace.

ALDERMEN HOLD SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the Aldermen was held Monday night to draw jurors and to act on certain petitions. The meeting was called at 8:20 by President Weeks and a good attendance for mid-summer was present. The only absentees were Aldermen Flitts, Gallagher and Leahy.

The new list of jurors, just compiled by City Clerk Grant, was approved. The list of election officers for this year was presented, and confirmed. It is printed in another part of this issue.

President Weeks announced that the Franchise and License Committee will hold a meeting next Monday night, and he suggested that the Board pass a vote granting the petitions for private garages and other such petitions, which will come before this committee on that night, provided that no objection to any of the petitions is made by any person. He commented that such action is irregular, but if it is deemed legal by the City Solicitor, it will save the aldermen from being obliged to attend another meeting next week. In conformity with President Weeks' suggestion, the motion was made by Alderman Grebenstein, and carried.

Among the petitions granted at the meeting were the following:—a permit to Edwin S. Webster to erect a greenhouse at 307 Hammond street; common victualer's licenses to Olive Snow and Julia Morrison at 15 Commonwealth avenue, Lillian Campbell at 2096 Commonwealth avenue; Harry Gath, Jr., 877a Washington street; Herbert Good, 452 Commonwealth avenue; Hugh Devine, auctioneer's license, 1469 Washington street; Anderson Cadillac Company, dealer in 2nd hand automobiles at 405 Washington street; Joseph Crotty, second hand furniture, 65 Ash street; Fried and Litchum, increased storage of gasoline at 1233 Washington street; Highland Oil Company, increased storage capacity of gasoline at Needham and East streets; Newton Turner, incorporator of Dover Country Club.

The petition of August Johnson for a garage permit at 16 Howland road, was held up, pending an agreement being reached between the petitioner and an abutor regarding the location of the garage.

The Board adjourned at 8:45.

DRAWN FOR JURY SERVICE

A special meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held on Monday night to draw jurors for the sessions of the Superior Court at Lowell and Cambridge next month. For the civil session at Cambridge on September 6, the names drawn were George H. Safford, 108 Boyd street; George A. Aston, 44 Oakland street; E. Arthur Hancock, 23 Pigeon Hill Road; Franklin S. Hoyt, 106 Berkeley street; Thomas F. Donahue, 2352 Washington street; Michael O'Grady, 186 Chapel street; Harry D. Perkins, 55 Aspen avenue. For the criminal session at Lowell on September 6, those drawn were Francis Hart of 406 Grove street, and Jesse McCourt of 146 Lincoln street. For the criminal session at Cambridge on September 12, Sydney Meleney, 42 Wessex road; Alcide Vachon, 73 Faxon street; George Walker, 414 Woodward street.

EDITORIAL

With a net increase of over $130,000 in the amount to be raised by tax levy, the Assessors have done extremely well to be able to reduce the tax rate of 1926 by sixty cents. This has been entirely due to the fact that the assessed valuations of the city have been increased over $7,500,000. Of this sum, over $5,000,000 was in buildings, about $700,000 was increase in land values and about $1,350,000 in personal property.

It should be noted that the state county and Metropolitan expenses increase about $22,000 and the city expenses about $113,000.

Every precinct in the city shows an increase in real estate values and all but two show an increase in personal property. Precinct 2 of Ward 3 and Precinct 1 of Ward 7, dropping slightly behind the 1926 figures.

The drawing of jurors for service next month and the appointment of election officers are indications that the summer vacation period is rapidly drawing to a close.

—With an exhibition like that of Wednesday at the annual playground festival, who will doubt the value of the playground work of the city?

—We suggest that Mayor Childs might follow President Coolidge's example and announce that he does not "choose" to run again for mayor.

—The reduction of 60 cents in our tax rate will be welcomed by every tax payer.

WILL RUN FOR 1928 ALDERMEN

Some of the present Board of Aldermen have made up their minds to run again. Some have decided definitely not to sacrifice more time in the more or less thankless task of serving their fellow citizens. Some have not stated whether or not they will "choose" to be candidates.

In Ward 1, Alderman Madden, the senior member of the Board, will retire after ten years of conscientious service. Alderman Earle will be a candidate for re-election. In Ward 2, Alderman Grebenstein will again run as a candidate for Alderman-at-large. Alderman William B. Baker will stand as a candidate for re-election from Ward 3. Alderman Richard Leahy will not run.

Alderman William C. Holbrook of Ward 5, representing Waban for the unexpired term of the late Alderman Favinger, will in all probability be a candidate. The aspiration of Alderman Hodgdon for the Mayor's chair will leave a vacancy to be filled for the office of Alderman-at-large from that ward. In Ward 6, at least one contest looms, as Robert A. Vachon intends to run for Alderman-at-large.

In Ward 7, Ward Alderman Fred Hawkins will again stand for re-election.

NOT A CANDIDATE

President Sinclair Weeks of the board of aldermen authorizes the statement that he will not be a candidate for mayor at the coming city election.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

Announcements, or admissions, that persons intended to be candidates for political offices in Newton, are coming in, or out, earlier this year, than usual. This being the case, we take this opportunity to broadcast the information "that we will be a candidate for Alderman from Ward 1 at the city election next December." Assuming, of course, that we will be alive at that time. We make this announcement after having been told by Alderman John Madden "that he will not be a candidate for re-election."

Alderman Madden will have served the citizens of Newton intelligently and faithfully for ten years when his present term expires. His retirement will mean a distinct loss to the city. In addition to the experience he gained from his long service, he possesses unusual legal knowledge, absolute integrity, and the courage to favor or oppose matters, even though such action on his part might incur the criticism of persons whose interests were affected.

In announcing our intention to become a candidate, we might truthfully say, "We have been urged to do so by many of our friends." But this "famous saying" has become so stereotyped that we will not resort to it. While some of our friends have urged us to enter the Board of Aldermen, we would not plunge into politics unless we had a personal desire to serve the city. For about four and one-half years, our professional duties have compelled us to attend meetings of the Newton Board of Aldermen. During that time we have missed but one meeting. We can truthfully claim to possess considerable experience in city affairs, particularly those concerning the Board of Aldermen.

We not only reside in Newton, but we work in Newton. Daily we travel about the city. So, we can say in all due modesty that we have unusual first hand knowledge of Newton, its affairs, and its needs. Almost every week we tell about certain things the aldermen should do to improve Newton. Sometimes our suggestions are heeded. More times they are not. This is to be expected. Just because we think a certain thing should be done is no reason why the aldermen should always agree with us. But if we have a voice and a vote in the Board, possibly our suggestions may carry more weight; not that we would attempt to inflict ourself to an obnoxious degree on our fellow members, should we be elected.

We realize that it will be a difficult task for the successor of Alderman Madden to measure up, even to an appreciable degree, to the reputation he has made. We are aware that he who enters politics must expect to be the target of much unkind criticism. Persons who enjoy good reputations, have many harsh things said about them when they enter the political arena. Notwithstanding, we are to plunge into the strife.

In last week's Graphic we condemned the large amount of space devoted by Boston papers to the precautions being taken against probable bombings. We contended "that if all this publicity about probable bomb outrages continues, it will be indeed fortunate if some weak-minded fanatic, through persistent suggestion, does not indulge in terrorism, and take innocent lives. The newspapers should 'lay off' on the hue and cry about 'reds' and bombs."

Because of this opinion expressed by us we are the recipient of several very sarcastic paragraphs from a young man who has started lately to dispense wit and wisdom through the columns of one of our local papers. He apparently is quite indignant that we should presume to cast any reflection on the judgment of anyone connected with a Boston paper. He distorts our remark in an attempt to make us seem ridiculous. Possibly it may be ardent presumption for a humble scribe on a suburban paper to criticize the sophisticated, "real" newspapermen who use their talents for the benefit of the public through the medium of metropolitan dailies. Probably if we possessed the erudition of our critic we would have more sense than to make the comment, which according to him is asinine. And, although he suggests that someone take our hand and tell us that we are "all wet," we will venture the opinion that the majority of the residents of this city will agree with us, rather than with him. And we also believe that the majority of Newton's residents will not agree with him that "what Newton needs is not more gas stations, but more all-night gas stations." Possibly if our esteemed contemporary, whose intelligence is above the average, and whom we will not accuse of being "all wet," because we do not agree with him, resided near a gas station, he would not advocate "that it be kept open all night."

ROTARY CLUB

The weekly meeting of the Rotary Club was held as usual at the Woodland Golf Club on Monday at noon. President Cecil Clark, who has recently returned from a vacation in Maine, presided and introduced the speaker of the day, Strabo V. Claggett of Auburndale. The speaker took for his subject "Some Causes of Business Depression" which was very interesting as well as instructive to the members present.

Chief among the causes of business depression is the ultra-conservatism of the New Englander. It is born and bred in the native Yankee and they often fail to have the courage of their convictions. The speaker expressed the opinion that investment seeking men, who are trying to start large projects, are handicapped from the very start by the suspicion with which they are looked upon when the word "promoter" was mentioned. Mr. Claggett, who it will be remembered ran for the position of Auditor at the last state election, and made a gallant showing against the Republican candidate and present incumbent, Alonzo R. Cook, urged the development of the port of Boston and other New England harbors to the utmost. Every natural advantage should be seized in order to develop the commercial possibilities of New England to the utmost.

ADDRESSES KIWANISANS ON PLAYGROUNDS

terme whether or not the child will be physically fit. It must be kept busy out of doors. The late war showed what an appalling percentage of America's young men were physically unfit. In Massachusetts 46% had physical defects. "It is up to us," said Mr. Hermann, "to recreate an environment favorable to the natural unfolding of children."

He contended that playgrounds are valuable assets to real estate. A playground in a neighborhood increases the values of nearby properties. Parents want their children to have such a recreation centre nearby.

From 78 acres of playground in Newton 15 years ago, the area has grown to 167 acres. In some parts of the city no provision has been made for playgrounds: Oak Hill and Thompsonville are examples. Land can be acquired in these two districts at little expense now. It should be acquired. Mr. Hermann lauded the Burr family for its magnificent contribution to the children of Newton. The Burr family donated a playground which bears the reputation of being the best of its kind in the world; one which would have cost the taxpayers $250,000, had the city been compelled to buy the land where it is located, and laid out this playground. This playground contains but 7½ acres, too little to allow enough space for expansion, and sufficient athletic fields. The Newton Centre playground is amply large with its 24 acres. The West Newton playgrounds were termed "jitneys" by Mr. Hermann, because of their small size. He advocated the purchase of 16 acres of swamp land available in that district for playground purposes.

Mr. Hermann quoted figures to show how extensively Newton's playgrounds are patronized. Last year 602,125 children attended them; 3350 permits were granted for their use by grown-ups and older children, 587 of these being for baseball games, 209 for football games, and 3942 for tennis. During the twelve weeks the bathing places were open, 168,621 attended them, and at the skating places 280,000 enjoyed this sport. The average cost for health giving happiness, concluded Mr. Hermann, "is but an infinitesimally small part of our taxes."

NARROW ESCAPE

Mrs. S. F. Nesmith of Albemarle road, Newtonville, had a narrow escape from drowning last Friday when she was taken ill while in swimming at Brant Rock.

W. R. Cleveland, a member of the life guard crew, noticed Mrs. Nesmith in distress about 500 feet from shore. He notified the station and a lifeboat was manned and sent to her rescue. When the members of the crew reached the spot where Mrs. Nesmith was seen she had disappeared, but several of the life guards dived into the water and brought her to the surface.

She was taken ashore, where the members of the life guard station worked on her for more than an hour before she was revived.

POLICE NEWS

Newell Hamilton of Memorial drive, Cambridge, was found not guilty in the Newton Court on Tuesday on the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He was found guilty of driving without his license or registration in his possession, and these charges were placed on file. Patrolmen Halloran and Conlon testified "that while they detected the odor of liquor from Hamilton's breath, he was not drunk." Hamilton claimed that the odor did not come from his breath, but was diffused by the car he was driving, which belonged to a friend.

Domenic DeVito of Parker street, Newton Centre, was in the Newton Court yesterday, and found guilty of the larceny of a tire. He was ordered to pay $15 to the storekeeper from whom he obtained the tire, and he was given a suspended sentence of three months to the House of Correction. DeVito obtained the tire by pretending it was for another man.

In court on Wednesday Raymond McDonough of Clinton, New York, was fined $10 for speeding; Herbert Esterberg of Swampscott was fined $10 for speeding, as was Nicolao Caprici of Milford; Tony Taricano of 65 Mills street, was fined $5 for parking without his car being properly lighted.

In court yesterday Ralph Johnson of 1714 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested by Officer McGrath, and was tried August 26. Hyman Shelman of Dalby street, who had been summoned into court on the allegation that he had committed assault and battery, was not tried, as the case was dismissed for lack of prosecution.

David Weber of Wrentham was arrested early Wednesday morning by Officer Davis charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, and with driving without a license or registration. He will be tried August 26.

LIFE SAVING TRAINING AVERTS TRAGEDY

One of the great tragedies of life is that often a human life—sometimes one of our own family—could have been saved with a little simple knowledge. At no time is this more true than when water accidents occur. To rescue a drowning person does not require great strength, endurance nor unusual swimming ability. Like everything else at which you would succeed, you must know how. The average swimmer not versed in life-saving methods, attempting a rescue stands very much the same chance for success as an automobile mechanic would if he tried to fill a tooth. Often he pays for his lack of information and training with his life. The coroner's records are filled with incidents where a double tragedy has followed the attempt of an untrained swimmer to rescue a drowning person.

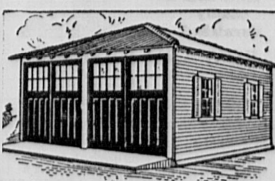

Other people—sometimes those very dear to us—pay the price of our neglect. Every year thousands of picnic parties leave home for a day of recreation at some beach or lake, to return with the corpse of a drowned brother or sister. Over half of all accidental drownings are preventable, life-saving experts tell us. A wider dissemination of life-saving instruction and the practice by swimmers of care and good common sense when in the water will materially decrease this appalling waste of life.

It is much easier to do a thing than to wish later that you had. The local Chapter of the American Red Cross, with the aid of an expert from National Headquarters in Washington, is offering a complete course in life-saving and water safety to every swimmer who cares to take advantage of the opportunity. Many people here are now learning in this course how to rescue a drowning person from the water; what to do if, in the attempt he is caught in one of the many death grips with which drowning people unconsciously grasp their rescuers; how to hold the water victim under perfect control with one arm and swim to shore with the other; and how to perform resuscitation if the victim is so near drowned that he has stopped breathing.

It is earnestly hoped that those who have not yet enrolled with the local Chapter for this course will do so at once. The insidious thing about it all is that no one knows when a knowledge of life-saving shall prove the means of averting tragedy. Those who pass the required tests and enroll in the American Red Cross Life Saving corps have the comforting assurance that they are well qualified to act intelligently and effectively when water accidents threaten human life.

At Crystal Lake, Newton Centre, in the morning and also in the afternoon these courses are being conducted. Information in regard to them may be obtained there from the instructor Mr. B. F. Boughner; or from the local headquarters 12 Austin street, Newtonville.

POLICE NEWS

Four drunks were arrested on Friday. Six inebriated individuals were arrested Saturday night and Sunday morning.

On Saturday Officer Dowling notified Andrew Magazun of 184 California street to restrain his dogs. Magazun stated that he intends to dispose of the animals.

James Barisano of 655 Watertown street, Newtonville, age 19, was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction on Saturday by Judge Bacon for non-support of his wife. His wife claims he shows little inclination to work, and he had been on probation for failing to support her.

Friday morning at 2:50, Serg. Veducio and Officer Henriks arrested Maurice Farrell of Adams street, Charlestown, on the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He will be tried on August 19.

In court on Friday morning Mrs. Rae McCullough of 146 Winthrop road, Brookline, was fined $10 for speeding.

Joseph LaPlant of 174 Berkeley street, Lawrence, was charged with driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. He will be tried August 17. Joseph Beska of 218 Elliot street, Upper Falls was fined $10 for allowing an exhaust whistle to make unnecessary noise.

Officer Ray Taffe had Louis Mour-jins of 626 Tremont street, Boston, in court last Friday for driving without eight feet of a street car stopped at Nonantum square to discharge passengers. Mourjins was fined $10. Another offender summoned in by Officer Taffe was Bradford Milligan of 125 Chilton street, Cambridge, charged with failing to stop when signalled to do so, and almost colliding with a Boston Elevated car. Milligan was fined $20.

At 12:39 Sunday morning Officer Goddard arrested William Hoblitzell of 143 Windsor road, Waban, on the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He will be tried on August 23.

Early Sunday morning the police were attracted to a somewhat noisy party at 347 Elliot street, Upper Falls, and entering the place arrested Carlo Lombardo, Augusto Moravelli, Antonio Cerigola and Thomas Vecene for gambling on the Lord's day. According to the testimony of Serg. Veducio, the four men, three of whom resided there, were playing not for money, but for beer. Inasmuch as the affair had the appearance of just a sociable little "home party," Judge Bacon was lenient, and fined each of the alleged gamblers $1.

Widyslaw Antropik, who boards at 25 Meacham street, Upper Falls, was arrested Saturday night, and disturbed the slumbers of the other boarders at that address. Among those who could not sleep because of Antropik's noisiness, was Mehran Kuorepan. He finally became so irritated that he proceeded to Widyslaw's room and walloped the latter into a painful silence. From the appearance of Antropik's face in court on Monday, Mehran packed a mean punch. Judge Bacon fined Antropik $10 for being drunk, and Kuorepan $30 for committing assault and battery upon Antropik.

George Bell, who resides at 45 Currier street, West Newton, drank too much "hard liquor" last Sunday, and got into a heap of trouble. First George refused to pay his fare on a Middlesex & Boston car, and was fired off the car at the corner of Washington street and Commonwealth avenue. Then he got into an argument with a boy and punched the youngster. Next Bell began to tell the world in loud tones his opinions on certain matters; his clamor became so discordant that the police were notified, so Officer Dowling came and arrested George. In court on Monday, Judge Bacon fined George $10 for drunkenness, and sentenced him to 30 days in jail on the disturbance charge.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the twelfth day of September, A. D. 1927, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

Witness, John C. Leggat, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fifth day of July, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

A few weeks ago we stressed the fact that many drivers of automobiles are not co-operating with the city in its efforts to safeguard traffic. The city has gone to considerable expense in placing warning signals at dangerous street intersections. One such beacon is located just outside the GRAPHIC office at the corner of Centre street, and Centre place. This is a very dangerous corner. The view is restricted, no matter from what direction one approaches. It is a frequent occurrence for operators of automobiles to make left turns into Centre street from Centre place driving to the left of the traffic signal. The State laws specify that when turning into an intersecting way, either to the left or right, an operator must keep to the right of the intersection of the centers of both ways. In heavy type the manual distributed by the Department of Motor Vehicles says, "The man who cuts a left corner is taking a desperate chance."

There is no excuse for an automobile operator driving to the left of a traffic signal when making a left turn, unless the signal instruct him to do so when the turn is made onto a one-way street. But, since so many motorists appear to be lacking in common sense, since they do not seem to possess sufficient brains to safeguard their own, or other persons' lives, we would suggest that on the bases of all the signals at street intersections in Newton, these words be painted, "Keep to the Right."

In last week's GRAPHIC we remarked that all the yapping in newspapers about probable bombings in connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti ag-

NEWTON MEN AT LEGION CONVENTION

Newton men were prominent at the convention of the American Legion, held last week at Fitchburg, Commander Julius Ramm of Newton Post was elected to represent District 5 of Middlesex County at the convention to be held in Paris, France, in September. Rev. William Farrell, formerly of West Newton, and now of Wilmington, a member of Newton Post, was urged by many of the delegates to run as a candidate for Department Chaplain, but he refused to do so.

Howard Emerson of Newton addressed the convention briefly as the representative of the Military Order of the World War. The Newton delegates voted unanimously to approve of the action of the Massachusetts division of the "40 and 8," the fun making adjunct of the Legion, recommending that the "color line" be abolished in the membership requirement of that society. Julius Ramm was reported by the press as having made a report for the constitutional amendment committee of the convention that no endorsement be given to an attempt to cause non-recognition of the "40 and 8" because of color discrimination. Mr. Ramm, like the other Newton delegates, does not approve of the "color line." The committee of which he was a member voted adversely against the resolution demanding non-recognition of the "40 and 8" because this matter is one that should be handled by the National Convention of the Legion, and not the state convention.

The race for the championship of the second half of the Newton Twilight League season is even closer than it was last week. Last Friday showed the Newton Highlands team out in front. Corpus Christi second. Upper Falls third and W. N. A. C. fourth. Friday night Upper Falls beat the leaders, 5 to 1, moving into second place and tumbling Highlands to third when Corpus Christi defeated Newton Centre, 4 to 3, to take the lead. Monday night the W. N. A. C. outfit lacked Corpus Christi on the West Newton Common and nearly beat them out. In the final inning Gadsden hit a home run but was called out by the umpire when the Auburndale catcher called for the ball and touched the plate, claiming that the runner failed to touch it. The West Newton team has touched it the game which officially is called a tie at 2 to 2. The Highlands meanwhile was taking the Y. M. C. A. into camp, 7 to 1. The standing of the teams remained the same. Tuesday night Corpus Christi won from Upper Falls, 6 to 4 and maintained its lead. Upper Falls dropped to fourth as the West Newton colored boys were beating their old rivals the West Newton Town Team 10 to 3 and climbing into a tie for second with the Highlands outfit. Rain spoiled the games last night which, if played would have changed the standing somewhat although Auburndale being idle, would still have retained the lead regardless of the outcome of the other scheduled games.

The games tonight and next week will probably eliminate one or more teams from the race or make the race even still closer than at present. Tonight Auburndale entertains the first half champions at Norumbega park and with one victory over the Falls team this week are confident of ringing up another. Upper Falls is just as confident of victory because they need it to stay in the race. Monday night Auburndale goes to the Highlands to engage in another important game. The Highlands will need that game to keep pace with Corpus Christi. Upper Falls tackles Earnshaw Mills at their home field and should have little difficulty winning. The West Newton A. C. must win from the Pals the same evening in order to stay in the race. Tuesday night Upper Falls and Auburndale should have little trouble in defeating the Newton Centre and West Newton T. Team respectively although either one of these teams may upset the dope. The two tail-enders, Y. M. C. A. and Earnshaw Mills meet in the other game that night. Wednesday night Upper Falls plays the Y. M. C. A., W. N. A. C., W. N. T. T., Highlands and Corpus Christi the Pals. All four of the leaders should win their games. Thursday night another crucial game is on the card when the West Newton colored boys go up to the Highlands. Both teams will fight hard for a victory. Upper Falls plays the Pals the same night. Friday night is another hectic night when the four leaders are playing among themselves. Upper Falls entertains W. N. A. C. while the South Sliders go to Norumbega park to meet the league leaders. In short, next week, is the big week for local fans with seventeen games on the card and at least one, sometimes two, important ones each night. Perhaps by Friday it will be easier to tell who will play Upper Falls, first half champions, for the title.

Will Get Medals Tuesday Night

The Upper Falls players will be given the medals which are awarded to the champions of each half on Tuesday night prior to the game with Newton Centre. Mayor Childs and members of the Playground Commission are expected to be there with the former making the presentation. The Graphic Cup, one leg of which was won last year by the Newton Catholic Club, will be presented to the first-half champions to hold until the conclusion of the city series—unless, if they win, will give them a leg on the trophy which is a three-time affair.

All-Stars Win Benefit Game

Wednesday night on the West Newton Common the league All-Star team, picked by the league officials, was the victor over the West Newton A. C., 4 to 2, in a game for the benefit of Earl Lomax, former catcher for the colored boys, who has been forced to give up the game this season on account of poor health.

LOCAL AUTOMOBILE
MEN AT BIG OUTING

Over 1200 members of the Chevrolet family of greater Boston made merry at the Annual Outing of the Chevrolet Dealers' Association at Shore Gardens, Nantasket yesterday. Every Chevrolet Dealer organization within 15 miles of Boston was present as guests of the Association, who also had as guests of honor Mr. M. D. Douglas, Assistant General Sales Manager, Detroit; Mr. H. L. Horton, Regional Sales Manager, New York; Mr. H. J. Walsh, Zone Sales Manager, Boston.

Peculiarly by a band, the entire party left Boston early in a fleet of 250 latest model Chevrolet cars, and drove to Nantasket where everything was in readiness for a day of frolic.

There were sports for the men, sports for the ladies, games and races for Junior, with sterling silver sets, gold vanities, travelling bags, and a host of other valuable prizes to the lucky winners.

A delicious lobster and chicken dinner to the strains of a popular orchestra, punctuated with a lively Charleston Contest, a Chevrolet dealer quartet, and a mystery contest made merry the noonday repast. Dancing, baseball games and sports for Juniors rounded out the greatest Chevrolet Outing ever.

Andrew Washburn and Harry E. Stevens of the Washburn-Stevens Company, Chevrolet dealers for Newton, together with their staff of salesmen, attended Wesley J. Furbush, who handles Chevrolets in West Newton, was also one of the participants in the outing.

NEWTON SPORTS

The "Ace" Takes Second Place

In the regular race of the Duxbury Yacht Club last Saturday the "Ace," owned by Miss Harriet Ellison, with Raymond Hunt at the helm placed second. The Flirt, sailed by Walter Amesbury was first. The two fifteen-footers had a close battle until the last leg when the Ace overtook the mark.

Noble Loses To Richardson

Arthur Noble and John Richardson were forced to play five sets in their match for the junior championship of the North Shore tournament at the Tedesco Country Club last week before the latter was declared the winner. It was the third consecutive year that the two had met in the finals of the same tourney and Noble had been the victor on both previous occasions. Last Thursday afternoon they started the final match but were forced to stop when rain interfered. Noble had won the first set, 6-4 and Richardson the second 7-5. Friday morning play was resumed. The Newton Centre youth won the third set handily by the score of 6 to 2. The fourth set went to Richardson in extra games 10-8 and the New Yorker then put on speed to take the fifth and final set at 6 to 2. Noble and his partner, John Lorenzen, were defeated by Richardson and Talbot in the finals of the doubles, 7-5, 3-6, 3-6, 5-7. Saturday morning in the finals of the mixed doubles Miss Frances Pettigill and Lorenzen were the victors over Miss Mary Russ of Lincoln and Noble, 6-3, 7-9, 7-5.

Martin Advances At Savin Hill

Don Martin, former B. U. tennis captain, advanced to the fourth round of the Savin Hill tennis tourney last Sunday by defeating H. Richardson, 6-1, 6-0. Abbott Gottshall, his doubles partner, was eliminated in the second round of the singles by F. Perkins, 4-6, 7-9.

Upper Falls On Short End

Last Sunday afternoon on the Upper Falls playground the Newton Upper Falls nine, first half champions of the Newton Twilight league, were on the short end of a 9 to 5 game with the East Cambridge Catholic Club. Hollissey, Cantab twirler, saved the game for the visitors by relieving Ed. Carney in the third inning and pitching shutout ball the rest of the game. The locals tallied twice in the first inning and three times in the third before Carney sought the sidelines. Bridget and Leo Crowley were on the mound for Upper Falls with Moore behind the bat.

Mahoney and Kerrivan Hit Hard

Last Sunday afternoon South Boston and Somerville, members of the Greater Boston Twilight league, played a double header at the South Boston playground with the former team winning both games. Southie is in first place in the league standing and two local boys have been having a prominent part in keeping them up. Neil Mahoney, Northeastern University catcher and mentioned as a possible major league prospect, and Joe Kerrivan, former New England league outfielder, are the two. Both are Upper Falls youths and many are interested in their play. Sunday both of them hit the ball hard. In the first game, Mahoney hammered out two doubles in three times at bat and scored one run, while Kerrivan connected for two singles in five trips and stole one base. In the second game each got one hit in three trips, and each scored one run. Mahoney reached first a second time when he was hit by a pitched ball.

Welsh Wins Woodland Tourney

Tommy Welsh, station master at the Woodland station, won the annual Woodland Golf Club tourney last Friday defeating M. D. Smith.

Local Men Out At Squirrel Island

Both of the local men entered in the tennis tourney at Squirrel Island, Maine, this week were eliminated in early rounds. R. S. Green of Newton Centre was defeated by E. F. McKnight of Springfield in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1 in a first round match. E. H. Bonnell of West Newton won his first round match but was put out by J. Appleton of Harvard in the second round, 6-1, 6-0.

Owen Loses To Tilden

In his first invitation tournament George Owen, former Newton high athlete who has turned his attention to tennis this summer, drew Bill Tilden, national star, for his first opponent in the tourney at Newport this week. Both drew byes for the first round. Owen won one game from the national champion in the two sets which ended 6-1, 6-0.

Donald Martin, former B. U. tennis captain and Waban youth, was eliminated in a first-round match by Lionel Ogden of San Francisco in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1.

Wasilevski Third In Caddy Tourney

Steve Wasilevski, Charles River Country Club caddy and member of Newton high's crack golf team this past spring, finished third in the annual caddy championship tourney at the Commonwealth C. C. on Tuesday. Tom Fahey of Winchester and Arthur Cody of Wollaston tied for first honors and will play off for the title next week.

In the final match for the beaten eight W. Kimball of West Newton defeated Dr. E. R. Cowles of East Orange in the golf tourney at Crawford Notch this week.

Gullian Again With Steamrollers

Mike Gullian, former Newton high and Brown University football captain will probably play tackle for the Providence Steamrollers again this year. The former local player has been with this professional outfit for several seasons past and says this game has come to stay.

QUICK RESPONSE BY FIRE APPARATUS AVERTS TRAGEDY

Quick work in responding to an alarm of fire from Box 115 early last Sunday morning probably averted what would have been a tragedy. About quarter past five a local business-man was driving past the house at 328 Washington street, Newton, owned and occupied by Elmer Parkhurst, when he noticed smoke issuing from a window. He pulled in Box 115, which is located in front of the engine house, and returned to the scene. Before he reached there the apparatus was at the fire. The fire was caused by sparks dropped by a lodger who was smoking and had fallen asleep. It was extinguished with little difficulty. Not knowing that Box 115 had been pulled a pedestrian pulled in Box 117 before the apparatus arrived calling in Watertown and West Newton.

Box 7 was rung in Monday night for a fire in an automobile near Langley road and Beacon street. A lighted cigarette accidentally dropped caused the fire which was extinguished by firemen. The car, which was owned by C. Guiler of Ridge avenue, was badly damaged.

An automobile owned by the Wm. A. Murfield Co. of Boston burst into flames last Saturday at the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Sumner street. It was extinguished by the fire department.

TOBIN—PRIEST

Miss Marie Bernadine Priest, daughter of James H. Priest of 13 Henshaw terrace, West Newton, became the bride of Mr. Walter T. Tobin of Concord, Mass., on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in St. Bernard's Church. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret C. Priest, and the groom had for his best man, Mr. Henry L. Tobin, a brother. The ushers were Nery C. Doucette of Waltham and William S. Towler of Concord.

Miss Priest was effectively gowned in a period dress of white satin with cascades of chantilly lace and a veil of duchess lace. The bridesmaid's dress was of two-toned pink georgette with ostrich trimmings. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and cut flowers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Northgate Club from 7:30 to 11. The young couple were assisted in receiving by the bride's father and Mr. and Mrs. Tobin, parents of the groom. Decorations at the club were palms, dahlias, gladioli and other cut flowers.

Music at the church was furnished by Miss Esther Costello at the organ, while a three-piece orchestra played at the reception. After a wedding trip to New York, Atlantic City and Washington by motor the couple will reside at 14 Eddy street, Waltham, where they will be at home after October first.

The groom is an overseas veteran, having served in the Yankee Division with the 104th Infantry. Master Harry Priest and little Miss Ruth Rogers, both of Arlington, assisted in the distribution of the wedding cake, which was made by Mrs. Mary F. McCarthy of West Newton.

REAL ESTATE

Morris Silverman has purchased 78 Waban Hill road, Chestnut Hill, Newton, which consists of a new brick single house, 2-car garage and about a quarter of an acre of grounds. He will occupy the premises at once. The title came through Eugene Siskind, and Henry W. Savage, Inc., was the broker in the transaction. The property is assessed for a total of $18,300, divided as follows: House $15,000, Garage $800, and Land $2,500.

Through the same office Myron L. Crowe conveyed to Willard W. Rice a lot of land on Sumner street, Newton Centre, containing some 16,200 sq. ft., same being part of the former Hovey Estate, which is being developed by Mr. Crowe. It is the new owner's intention to improve with a home for his own occupancy. The tax value is $3700.

Y. M. C. A.

Assistant Physical Director E. Melville Westgate began a two-week vacation this week. He is at Geneva Point Camp, Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H., where he is instructing some 80 boys between the ages of 16 and 21 in life-saving methods. He will also conduct the regular Red Cross life-saving tests. He returns to the Y for a few weeks after Labor Day before leaving for Springfield, where he has enrolled in the Y. M. C. A. training college.

Camp Frank A. Day closes next week Wednesday after a very successful season in spite of extraordinarily inclement weather.

Monday. The Newton high golfer, Fahey, had the best morning round with a 79. On the afternoon round the local lad needed a three on the 18th to the Fahey. His tee shot was too strong and carried over the green into a trap. One shot put him back on the green but two putts left him one stroke behind Fahey. Cody came to the 18th also needing a three and displaying remarkable coolness he came through to tie it up.

ROTARY CLUB

The weekly meeting of the Rotary Club was held as usual at the Woodland Golf Club on Monday at noon. President Cecil Clark presided and introduced as the speaker, Mr. J. Frank DeChant, vice-president of the Sheldon school of Boston. His subject was "Efficiency" and the attention of interest of the members present was held to the end by the forcefulness of the speaker. No matter what vocation a man may take up he can be a master in that line Mr. DeChant stated. Attending to business and studying it from all angles will accomplish this end. It makes little difference whether it be some high, important position or whether it be the lowest of menial labor. Largely it is a process of developing the student. Another outstanding point in the talk was the making of mistakes by an employee. Mr. DeChant was of the opinion that it was far better for the employer to take the one who had made the mistake and by proper handling coach him so that there will not be a repetition. This way is far better than to discharge the maker of the mistake. Not only far better for the employee but better for the organization which employs him in that it welds it more closely together.

Pres. Clark announced that twenty-two members had signed their intention of attending the convocation at Poland Spring, Me., next month.

SNOW—DONALD

Miss Lorena M. Donald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Donald of 371 Cherry street, West Newton, became the bride of Donald B. Snow, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Snow of 239 Robbins street, Waltham, last Friday evening. Rev. John W. Barnett of the Union Church, West Watertown, officiated at the ceremony which took place at eight o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. R. J. Wyckoff, D.D., of Los Angeles, California, an uncle of the bridegroom, assisted and offered prayer at the close of the ceremony. Two vocal solos, "O Promise Me," and "Because" were sung by Mrs. Golder of Watertown. The accompanist was Mrs. Harvey Donald, a sister-in-law of the bride. The wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Houghton of Watertown.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white bridal satin with rhinestone and pearl trimmings. She wore a tulle veil with wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Carolyn Snow, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid, wore a frock of orchid shade and carried pink roses. Bertrand Tuttle was the best man. The double ring ceremony was used. The bride party stood beneath an arch of white and orchid colored sweet peas from which a large white wedding veil was suspended.

Upon their return from an auto tour of two weeks the young couple will make their home at 239 Robbins street, Waltham. The bride was graduated from Newton High last June and the groom attended Waltham High and graduated from Wentworth Institute in 1925.

POLICE NEWS

Chief of Police and Mrs. Bernard F. Burke are spending their annual vacation at Hampden Beach.

Maurice A. Farrell of Adams street, Charlestown, was fined $100 in the Newton Court on Friday last for driving while under the influence of liquor. On the same day Marjorie Carr of 38 Otis street, Newtonville, and Samuel Lewis of Boston street, Brookline, each was fined $10 for speeding.

The house of Irving Clark at 2181 Washington street, Lower Falls, was one of those broken into and robbed by a gang of young thieves a couple of months ago. Last Thursday Clark came up from his summer home at Hingham to find that his Lower Falls residence had been entered and ransacked a second time, but that nothing of value had been stolen.

Swan Hartwell of Temple street, West Newton, reported to the police last Friday that a house at 40 Lenox street, which he owns, had been entered and ransacked while his tenants were away.

Frank O. Southwell of 66 Court street, Newtonville, was fined $100 in court on Monday morning for driving while under the influence of liquor. On a charge of drunkenness he was fined an additional $5. Sergeant Moan and Traffic officer J. F. O'Donnell arrested Southwell in Newtonville square on the morning of August 1st.

Leo Mazzone and Carman Santa Maria of Springfield were arrested Sunday night in an automobile in Newton Centre by Patrolman Carley on charges of drunkenness. Mazzone, driver of the car, was also charged with driving "wutol," and without license or registration. In court on Monday morning his case was continued to August 29.

About two o'clock Sunday morning in Newton Centre Patrolman Davis arrested Thomas C. Purslow of Boston on charges of drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor. In court on Monday morning his case was put over to August 30.

In the district court on Tuesday William W. Hoblitzell, Jr., of 143 Windsor road, Waban, was fined $100 on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. A charge of drunkenness was placed on file. Hoblitzell pleaded not guilty but offered no defense and admitted a finding of guilty. He was given until Dec. 23rd to pay the fine.

His arrest by Patrolman Goddard took place in Auburndale shortly after midnight last Sunday morning.

Patrolman Regan and McHugh arrested James Pricella of 6 Beach street, Newton, Monday night on a warrant issued by the Cambridge court charging him with assault and battery. He was turned over to Sergeant King and Patrolman Regan of the Cambridge police.

Charles M. O'Hearn of Hudson and Edmund F. O'Hearn of Brookline were in court on Tuesday as the result of an alleged sortie upon a gasoline station at 1030 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, after it had closed for the night. The former is charged with refusing to stop on signal of a police officer and the latter with the larceny of seven gallons of gasoline. According to the police their automobile ran out of gas on the night of August 5th. One of them is alleged to have broken the lock on the pump and to have taken seven gallons of the fluid. Patrolman Conlon, the arresting officer, came along at this point and the pair fled, ignoring a signal to stop. Their case was continued until Sept. 20th.

EXPERIENCED MARKET MAN USES MODERN METHODS IN SUCCESSFUL COMPETITION

ANDREW J. FORD

After months of preparation the very attractive new quarters of A. J. Ford's market at Newton Corner are ready and this up to date food store is now open for business. On Friday and Saturday, September 9th and 10th there will be a formal opening. It will be in striking contrast to the store occupied for many years by Ford's Market at 297 Centre street, which was much too small for the volume of business handled there. The new store at 350 Centre street, in the Summer Block, directly opposite the Newton Trust Company building and alongside the bus terminal of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway, is modern in every respect. It is attractively finished in oak, and affords double the floor space of the old store. A very efficient electric refrigerating plant maintains a freezing temperature in the large storage room and keeps the glass enclosed show cases at the desired cooling point. The display windows have tiled floors and sides, and particular care has been used to provide sanitary arrangements for the storing and handling of fish. A complete line of the best in groceries, fruit and vegetables will be carried.

Most of the personnel of Mr. Ford's old market, some of whom have been in his employ for years, will greet customers at the new market. The same telephone number used at the old market, Newton North 0061-0062, 0063, will obtain for the new market. It is 40 years since Andrew J. Ford started in the provision business. Sixteen years ago he came to Newton as manager of Knight & Company's market, later going into business for himself. Upon starting his market in Newton, Mr. Ford planned a method of doing business that would permit the sale of high quality food supplies at low prices. He aimed for a large volume of sales and the reduction of overhead expenses. The methods he inaugurated were so radically different from those in general use by markets in Newton, that his clerks prophesied dismal failure for him, and most persons hereabouts entertained a like view. But time has proved that his judgment was correct, and his business has enjoyed a steady growth.

It was the old custom here for meat and grocery stores to carry monthly credit accounts, to make deliveries at all hours of the day, and to keep open until 7 o'clock most evenings, and until 11 o'clock or later on Saturday nights. The monthly credit accounts caused large losses to be sustained by market owners, the "hit and miss" delivery service necessitated the maintenance of all too many horses and wagons, which stood idle much of the time. The market owners of former years vied one with the other to see who would have the larger number of delivery wagons, and it was a common sight to observe several horse drawn vehicles standing in front of stores for hours every day. Long trips would be made to deliver just a few orders. All this waste produced financial failures for a large percentage of the merchants burdened by it.

When Mr. Ford opened his market, he announced that he would have but two daily deliveries of goods. These deliveries started promptly at scheduled hours, and the heavily loaded automobile trucks regularly and rapidly covered their routes through the city. One automobile truck would deliver orders to as much territory as would several horse drawn wagons. Instead of allowing customers to pay their bills monthly, Mr. Ford limited his customers to one week's credit, and thus cut down to a minimum losses because of non-payment of accounts due. Instead of incurring the heavy expense of maintaining order wagons, and employing order clerks to solicit trade, Mr. Ford depended on the telephone, and most of his customers phoned in their orders. He was always an exponent of early closing, and of closing on holidays.

From his two score years of experience in the market business, Mr. Ford has had opportunity to compare present day conditions with those of past years. He asserts that the cost of selling merchandise today is no more than it was 30 years ago. While it is true that rents, wages, and other expenses have increased greatly, other things tend to offset these factors. Thirty years ago a store doing an annual business of $25,000 would be considered prosperous; today such a store does $100,000 business annually. The country has grown in population. Other large savings are afforded by the supplanting of horses by automobiles, and the use of the telephone in receiving orders. In former years the average cost of running a market was 23% of the receipts; it was necessary to make a gross profit of 25%. Today the cost of running a market averages between 19 and 20, and a gross profit of from 20 to 22% suffices.

The survival of the fittest certainly applies to those engaged in the meat and grocery business in this country today. The owner of a provision or grocery store must be "on his toes" to meet the trying competition of chain stores. According to statistics published by the United States Department of Commerce, one-half of the grocery and provision stores started in this country eventually fail. The average life of a grocery store is seven years; those succeeding show a net profit of 1 or 1½%. That Mr. Ford is one of the successful merchants is manifested by the fact that in the face of increasing competition, he has found it necessary to move into larger quarters because of increased business.

LOCAL YOUTH
ESCAPES DEATH IN FATAL CRASH

One youth was killed and another injured last Saturday afternoon about five o'clock when a truck owned by the Orr Hardware Company of Newtonville and driven by George J. Schade of 51 Harding avenue, West Newton, struck a fast Boston bound express train of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad at the Hastings street crossing in Wendell Green. Warren Yetten, nineteen, of 206 Lowell street, Waltham, who was riding on the truck was instantly killed and Schade was severely injured.

There are no gates at this crossing and the noise of a freight train which had just passed the crossing probably prevented the driver from hearing the warning signal bell. The truck was said to be traveling at a high rate of speed and apparently the driver caught sight of the approaching train just before he reached the tracks as persons living nearby heard the grinding of the brakes on the truck. Schade, however, was unable to stop the truck in time and it crashed into the second car of the train as it sped past. The impact hurled the truck about and crumpled it up into a shattered mass of wood and metal. Yetten was thrown out, struck on his head, and probably instantly killed. Schade, who was also thrown onto the track, was conscious when picked up but collapsed soon after.

The train ran nearly to the Kendall Green station before it stopped. None of the crew knew of the accident until the conductor, who was informed of it by passengers on the train, pulled the cord, stopped the train, and ordered it backed up to the scene. In the meantime the Weston and Waltham police had been notified and the latter sent an ambulance. Schade was removed to the Waltham hospital and Yetten's body to the morgue.

First reports were that Schade was fatally injured but it was found that his injuries were not as serious as thought. He was discharged from the hospital on Tuesday. The train proceeded on its way to Boston after the few minutes delay.

EDITORIAL

An examination of the figures of the new tax rate announced last week by the assessors shows that the reduction is due to the increase in valuations made by the assessors and to the careful scrutiny of the Board of Aldermen. Mayor Childs' budget of $3,919,758.63 was cut by the assessors $159,317.27 with subsequent additions of $27,882.23, making a total net reduction from the Mayor's figures of $127,435.04. If the Mayor's budget had been passed as recommended by him the above figures would have added 90 cents to the rate.

Mr. Grabbill's letter in the Boston Herald of yesterday will be comforting reading to many who are anxious that Massachusetts justice in the future should not have to undergo another experience such as we have just passed thru in the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

That the chairman of the Sacco-Vanzetti defence committee should be found guilty and fined for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor seems to us to be a logical and natural sequence. We regret to state, however, that he is a resident of Newton.

Do not let your approval of a reduced tax rate blind you to the fact that our city expenses are rapidly increasing.

Governor Fuller has the sympathy of all good citizens in the trying position he has been in for the past few months.

We are glad to note that the Boston Herald has resumed the feature written by Mr. Edward E. Whiting.

Massachusetts justice may be slow but it is undoubtedly sure.

POLITICAL NOTES

Mr. John W. Blakeney Jr. of Washburn street will be a candidate for ward alderman in ward 1 to succeed Alderman John C. Madden who retires.

REVISE WARD LINES

To the Editor:

Last week you published a very interesting table of figures relative to the valuation, expenses, etc., of the City of Newton. One significant fact is disclosed by the figures—that representation in our city government is no longer proportional or even approximately so. Assume, for the sake of argument, that total population is relatively the same as the number of polls, and very glaring inequalities at once present themselves. Contrast the three smaller wards—

Ward 7—1593 polls.
Ward 4—1746
Ward 1—1766

with the three larger wards

Ward 6—2825
Ward 2—3024
Ward 5—3125

I should not want to suggest that representation in any legislative body be apportioned on a property basis but the disproportion indicated by the polls as above, is only emphasized, and not minimized, by the valuation figures.

This all points to the propriety of a revision of ward lines at the next opportunity, to the end that representation in our city government be more nearly equal.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE W. PRATT.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

The GRAPHIC this week shows a picture of the entrance to the blacksmith shop formerly conducted by the late John Scott at Newton Corner. This entrance was a part in transportation. Long ago the forge was removed from it, and horses were not brought to be shod in it, but the automobile repair shop of Joe Jewett now occupies some of the space where John Scott's smithy stood.

To the right of the entrance, just beyond the towering elm tree, can be seen the end of the old Central House. This was a well known inn during the 19th century, patronized by farmers and drovers travelling to and from the Brighton cattle yards. In its latter days it was conducted by George Lamson. A wide veranda along the front of the Central House, afforded its guests an opportunity to "park" there and view the vehicles and pedestrians passing through Nonantum square. Many well known Newtonians of the past, resided for long periods at the Central House. For the most part they have passed on, but some still reside in Newton. Supt. John I. Farwell of the Newton postoffice, and Mr. George H. Snyder of Hunnewell terrace resided for years at the Central House.

CITY HOLDS TITLE TO "TRIANGLE" SITE

Buildings Commissioner Chadwick was notified a few days ago that several parcels of land at the "triangle" site had been taken by right of eminent domain by the City of Newton, and duly registered at the Registry of Deeds at East Cambridge. The parcels taken include the narrow triangular portion of the tract, bounded by Homer street, Commonwealth avenue, and Lakeview avenue, and a large area bounded by Lakeview avenue, Commonwealth avenue, Homer street, and extending partly along Walnut street. In this latter taking is included Crowell's Garage, the Socony filling station, Raimondi's store (formerly the waiting room), and the O'Brien house on Homer street.

The taking of the remaining portion of the "triangle," with a considerable frontage along Walnut street, and containing several dwelling houses, has not been authorized by the Board of Aldermen, but will be during the next year, or so.

SEVEN UPSET ON SUNDAY

Seven persons took an unexpected dip in the Charles River last Sunday when their canoes tipped over. Two of the occupants were girls and the rest young men. Three of the latter were in danger of drowning and were rescued by the police. Patrolman John A. Austin brought one ashore near the Wabewawa Boat House where he was clinging to his overturned canoe. The other two were rescued by Patrolman Timothy Sheehan after their craft capsized near Norumbega Park.

KENNEY—LEACH

The wedding of Miss Esther Louise Leach, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Leach of Waban, and Mr. Albert Austin Kenney of Greenville, Pa., took place yesterday morning at the Church of Mary Immaculate of Lourdes at Upper Falls, where the ceremony was performed at 10 o'clock by Rev. Frederick Driscoll.

The bride wore white satin, embroidered with pearls, a tulle veil with pearl head dress, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Her sister, Miss Alice Elizabeth Leach, was maid of honor and was in pink satin, trimmed with cream lace, with a black velvet hat faced with pink and having black velvet streamers. Her satin slippers and stockings matched her dress.

Mr. Edward J. Kenney, brother of the groom, was the best man, and the ushers were Messrs. J. Francis Kenney, brother of the groom, Thomas J. Leach, Jr., and Charles F. Leach, brothers of the bride, and William Fleming, brother-in-law of the bride.

A reception followed at the home of the bride on Beethoven road, which was attractively decorated with palms and cut flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenney will visit Greenville, Pa., on their wedding trip and will reside in Chicago, where the groom is connected with the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works.

The bride is a graduate of the Framingham Normal School and was a teacher in Wellesley. The groom was of the class of 1923, M. I. T., a member of the Tau Beta Pi, and was president of the Society of American Military Engineers.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two automobile accidents occurred on Monday of this week. About 5:30 p. m., as A. R. Hoagland was driving a Stutz touring car, owned by Victor Hoagland, out of the driveway at 169 Lexington street, Auburndale, it collided with a Ford sedan, owned and operated by George K. Drury of Edgemore avenue, Wellesley. Robert Book-er of Natick, who was riding in the smaller car with Drury was slightly cut by flying glass. He was taken to the Newton hospital for treatment.

Twenty minutes after ten o'clock the same evening Miss Hazel Wood of 969 Chestnut street, Newton Upper Falls, was slightly injured when she was struck by a Packard touring car, owned by Theodore B. Cogswell of 103 Cypress street, Newton Centre, and operated by Austin Gibbons of 4 Lincoln road, Brookline, near the corner of Chestnut and Boylston streets, Newton Upper Falls.

Miss Wood started to cross the street to board a Worcester street car when she was struck by the automobile which was traveling towards Boston. The driver of the car stated he did not see Miss Wood.

66 GARAGE PERMITS APPROVED

The franchise and license committee of the board of aldermen approved applications for 66 private garages, granted by the board at its last meeting on condition of approval, at a meeting Monday night. The committee held back two permits to which abutters had entered protests. The two permits were those of Domenico DiIuozzo, 5 Murphy court, Ward 2, 1-car; and Gertrude C. Jude, 46 Walnut road, Ward 3, 2-car. No opposition was made to the other 66 petitions. In order to eliminate the necessity of meeting again this month the board, at the special meeting last week Monday, voted to grant all the petitions upon which no objections were raised at the public hearings of the committee on Monday of this week.

POLICE NEWS

In court yesterday morning Mary C. Thompson, 26, giving her address as 115 Summer street, Watertown, was charged with vagrancy on complaint of the Poor Department and given a suspended sentence to the State Farm.

The case of Lynford B. Goodwin, charged with driving under the influence of liquor was continued to Sept. 1.

Lloyd D. Tarlin of Brookline was in court yesterday on a charge of violating a traffic rule. His case was filed.

Henry LaCroix, of Cambridge was in court yesterday on a charge of non-payment of more than $300 in wages to eight employees and was ordered by the court to pay the money due on the installment plan at the rate of $5 a week. LaCroix, who is a carpenter, has been engaged in building operations in the Newtons. He was summoned to appear in court after the eight employees had complained to the State Board of Labor and Industries that they had not received wages due them.

LaCroix informed the court that he was not financially able to pay the entire sum due at once, but agreed to pay $5 a week on the debt. Judge Bacon ordered the payments to be made to the probation officer and continued the case until October 1.

Three speeders were found guilty in court on Wednesday morning, two paying $10 fine and one a $25 fine. Nathaniel P. Lyons of Brookline and Mark J. Kelly of 58 Oakliffe road, Newtonville, pleaded guilty to the charge and paid the $10. Wilfred Bloomberg of Brookline answered not guilty to the speeding charge and after being found guilty was given until a week to pay the $25 fine. The case of Samuel S. Cantor who was also charged with speeding was put over until August 31st when he failed to appear in court.

Richard L. Cody of 33 Frederick street, Newtonville, who was charged with assault and battery was dismissed.

Three drunks were arrested over the week-end.

The case of Gardner Jackson of Rice street, Newton Centre, who was arrested on charges of drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor, was brought before the court Wednesday after a postponement from August 15th. Jackson pleaded not guilty to both charges. The first charge was placed on file and upon the latter he was found guilty and fined $100, which he paid.

The claim of a son-in-law to Mrs. Rosie De Santos of West Newton that a quantity of wine in a barrel, seized at her home, was in reality his made no impression on Judge Bacon in district court on Wednesday. The claimant did not appear in court but entered his claim through Sergeant Mahoney, to whom he had previously appealed for the return of the wine.

The sergeant informed the court that the woman had made sales from the barrel that had been seized. The court thereupon ordered the barrel forfeited.

Recently a Newton fireman and a Newton policeman got into a mixup with each other with the result that Richard Cody, the fireman, was to appear in court Wednesday on charges of assault and battery on Patrolman William J. Maloney. The alleged encounter took place last Saturday. The case dissolved into thin air when Maloney filed a written statement with the court in the form of an "acknowledgment of satisfaction." The court thereupon dismissed the charge against Cody "for want of prosecution."

Traffic Officer J. F. O'Donnell and family have returned from a two weeks' vacation in Quebec, Canada.

Gertrude E. Hoyt of 9 Eddy street, West Newton, reported to the police Saturday that her machine had been stolen from the parking place on Washington street near the corner of Centre place. About an hour later she found the car nearby.

"I've a much better ambition," exclaimed another. "I want to be warden of a penitentiary. The alumni never come back to visit."—Harper's Magazine.

REMINISCENCES OF THE EAST SCHOOL

History repeats itself. The School Committee and the Aldermen of Newton selected as a site for the new John Ward school at Vabam Hill, a location quite near that of the old East School. In connection with this interesting fact it is timely to reprint reminiscences written by the man whose name the new school will bear. These reminiscences appeared in the "Newton Circuit" in 1899.

"Newton in 1840 was divided into five school districts, named from their locality, the Centre, East, North or Newton Corner, West, Oak Hill, Upper and Lower Falls. The appropriation for the support of schools was made at the annual town meeting and divided somewhat in proportion to the number of scholars in each district. There was a town school committee, and each district chose a prudential committee, who hired the teachers, took charge of the school house, and provided fuel for the cast iron stove. What may be said will refer to the East school district, as all may not have been conducted exactly alike. The first schoolhouse which our fathers attended, was situated on Ward street, a little below the residence of W. Harback. When this was built was not known, but it was probably used until a new one was built about 1815 (Smith's History says 1809 it was discontinued) on a large pile of stones picked from the adjoining fields at what is now known as the north side of the boulevard, corner of Hammond street. The old schoolhouse was moved on Ward street to near the end of Grant avenue and was used as a kind of storehouse; its size was 14 by 15 feet, that was the size spoken of by early town records. About 40 years ago it was torn down and removed. The new schoolhouse gave us plenty of air on a cold winter's day, coming up from beneath through the pile of stones. There were plank seats against the wall on each side of the house, with a long desk in front on which to lay the books; a row of smaller seats in front of this for the younger scholars. This afterwards was changed, and desks with lids to open, and an alley for every two seats instituted. This house was not painted red, and it was not the custom in this town to paint with that color. This house was used until the grammar schoolhouse at Newton Centre was built, and the district system abolished. It was afterwards used for five years as a primary school.

The prudential committee was chosen after the annual town meeting at the district schoolhouse, and sometimes it was an interesting occasion as some parent might have a daughter or other friend they desired for teacher. The pay of the masters was $30 per month for four months winter term, afterwards increased to $40 when college students were employed. A female teacher was employed in summer at wages from $4 to $5 per week and school lasted as long as the money held out. The pay of the boys for building fires and keeping the house in order was $2.50 for the winter term, afterwards increased to $3. The method of keeping fire was to bring a kettle of coals the first morning from home, and at close of school to spread the coal and lay on a couple of sticks of wood and cover with ashes. I have known it to keep in this way from Friday night to Monday morning.

In the winter of 1838 a boy brought to school a box of matches which by drawing through sandpaper ignited, and the next winter we bought a paper in our present form, paying 6c for it, and the keeping of the fire over night was neglected. We had only every other Saturday for a holiday, and would not have cared if there had not been any, as eight months work on the farm was enough, without adding to it during school days. One hour was given for noon recess and most brought their dinners and spent the time in recreation. Many little incidents occurred in school that might not interest the public, but will never be forgotten by those who survive.

A year ago we met an old schoolmate, it being many years since seeing each other. He was asked about a fight between himself and another boy, whom he had by an unexpected blow knocked senseless to the ground; he expressed his only sorrow was that he had not finished him; but after a period of 60 years, I do not believe this was his real feeling towards one whom he often meets in public places. The most impressive thing in my early memory of school was the class of big boys and girls arranged across the room to end the exercises of the day with the spelling lesson. The examination at the close of the term with the committee present was an interesting time for scholars and their parents, who showed by their presence that they cared to know more than many parents at present manifest in regard to their children's standing beside their mates. Some teachers made it a rather superficial affair, as at one summer school a class in Goodrich's United States history had all the questions the teacher would ask marked, and we were well drilled, and I presume we received a perfect mark. Many years after I asked how she justified such a course? She replied it was the custom to do so, but not all our examinations were like this one. The first class in arithmetic was called at the close of the winter term and the committee gave the examples, and the smallest boy in the class was generally the first to raise his hand as ready with the answer.

Some of the books used were behind the times of the period. Much depended upon the committee and the teacher. They followed what they found in use. Perry's spelling book was used with words ending like words such as honor, labor, etc., spelled honour and the like.

The Centre district used Webster's spelling book. When our book was discarded, we used none, but had a few words marked in our reading book, to spell when convenient. The result was—that when we came to Mr. Price's school to finish our studies, we found ourselves at the foot of the spelling class, but thanks to Mr. Price, who gave his pupils a good, practical education, we have been able to make less mistakes than some who graduate from our present schools. The privileges we had were prized, and it often seems strange to me that with such superior advantages, they should be so little valued by many at the present time.

The school of the winter of 1840-1841 was kept by Mr. Brackett Lord who afterwards lived and died at Newton Highlands. The school numbered 32 boys and 15 girls—47 in all. The number now living are three girls, Mrs. James F. C. Hyde, Miss Eliza Norcross, and Mrs. George H. Dupee; 11 are known to have passed away, and one, a transient resident, is unknown. Of the boys, 17 are living, 11 have left us, and four are unknown. Is it not something unusual that only one-fifth of the girls should remain with us, while a majority of the boys are still living after a period of 58 years. The youngest living is 61 years, and the oldest 74 years of age. The boys grown to manhood have been employed in various stations in life; one is an honored pastor in a large Southern city, a number engaged in various trades, some as business men, and a few still living on the old homesteads, handed down from the first settlement of this region. The next generation may see none remaining on the ancient homestead to perpetuate the name held by them.

One incident occurred during the winter session which will not be forgotten by two or three boys. During the intermission they took their first smoke, and before the close of school they might be compared to seascap passengers in a gale at sea. This may have been their last smoke, as I do not know anyone living who is in the habit of using tobacco or any inebriating beverage. Others perhaps might write things more interesting of the old school house and of the good work done there, and I leave it for them to tell what has been omitted.

Last week we learned that we had been misinformed regarding the birthplace of John Ward, and we endeavored unsuccessfully to have a correction made in the article concerning him. He was not born in the house on Hammond street. He was born in the house on Ward street, where he resided all his life. This house was built by his father in 1821.

THE CHILDREN'S MUSEUM

On Sunday, August 28th, at 3:30 o'clock, at the Children's Museum at Boston, Jamaica Plain, a motion picture talk on Animal and Bird Life in Yosemite National Park will be given. Bears, chipmunks, deer and elk will be depicted. A mother grouse, water thrush, robins, fly catchers and baby thrushes will also be illustrated in interesting natural poses.

This talk by Miss Pearl Bragdon of the Museum Staff will be appreciated by nature lovers and others interested in wild life of the sort described. The regular three o'clock stories for the coming week will be as follows: Monday, August 29th, Tree Friends. With colored lantern slides. Wednesday, August 31st, Chinese Folk Stories. With slides showing Chinese life and scenes. Friday, September 2, Queer Animals in the Museum. Illustrated by mounted specimens.

TWI-LEAGUE NOTES

Get Medals Tuesday
Because of the rain last Tuesday afternoon the presentation of the medals and the Graphic Cup to the Upper Falls team was postponed until next Tuesday night when Upper Falls faces the Pals on the Upper Falls playground. It is expected that Mayor Childs will be on hand to make the awards.

Benefit Game Wednesday
Next Wednesday night on the West Newton Common the league All-Stars will play the Corpus Christi team in a benefit game for Del Ryan of the Auburndale outfit who has been out of the game for some time on account of sickness.

Postponed Games Next Week
Secretary Rufus H. Bond is planning to sandwich in next week the games which were postponed on account of the rain Wednesday night in an effort to wind up the league schedule. The city series will be started as soon as the winner of the second half is determined unless Upper Falls, first half champions, come through on top again. If this is so it is said that the Upper Falls team will try to arrange a series with the champions of the Middlesex county league for the enjoyment of the local fans.

LOCAL ARCHERS IN BIG TOURNEY

Dr. Paul W. Crouch of Newton Centre led the men in the 100-yard range of the York Round at the National tournament at Cambridge. His record was 49 hits, 209 score, one hit more and 9 points more in score than A. L. Brush of Cos Cob, Conn., his nearest competitor, made. The rain made shooting impossible on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday.

Crouch is easily among the top entrants at every tournament. Stanley F. Spencer of San Pedro, California, who wrestled the National championship from Crouch last year after a bitter fight, had only fourth place on the list with a total of 41 hits, 168 score. E. W. Frenz of Melrose, who has shot many times with the Newton Archers gained a fifth place on the list. Other Newton men prominent at the field were L. C. Smith, the National President John Preston True of Waban, and Philip H. Ripley of Newton.

On the Women's side Mrs. H. S. C. Cummings of Brookline, who as Miss Dorothy Smith of Newton Centre was last year's National women's champion, lost to Mrs. Robert Johnson of Los Angeles, California, by 18 points in score, the hits being equal. Mrs. Johnson made 69 hits, 357 score in the first National Round Tuesday morning. Other women from Newton shooting were Miss Ruth Brewer of Newton Centre, Miss Eleanor True of Waban, Mrs. Burton Payne Gray of Newton Centre, and Mrs. H. A. Bartholomae of Waban.

On Wednesday evening at the annual business meeting California was rejected as the next meeting place in favor of Rye, New York. The Newton Archers entertained a large number of people on the range at Newton Centre on Saturday and Monday. Large crowds of entrants for the National tournament at Cambridge came to Newton Centre for practise on each of those days. Among the guests were a group of thirteen from North Carolina, a lady archer from England, archers from California, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, New York, etc.

At the end of Thursday's shooting Dr. Paul W. Crouch of Newton Centre was about 100 points ahead of A. L. Brush of Cos Cob, Conn. Spencer of California, last year's national champion, had dropped to fourth place. Friday morning will see the men's championship decided, but it looks as if Crouch would get it, with such a strong lead, as there is very little more to shoot of the rounds necessary.

Mrs. Cummings, who was Miss Dorothy Smith of Newton Centre, lost the women's championship to Mrs. Robert Johnson of California, who exceeded by about 30 points. Mrs. Johnson won the lead in spite of a poorer score on Thursday morning, when she had trouble with her release.

Mrs. Cummings also won the wand shoot with two hits out of six at 40 yards, wrestling it from many ladies, among them Miss Brewer of Newton Centre, who has had it twice.

The Newton archers have won great praise for the facilities they have arranged for on Soldiers' Field.
